Xavier Hall, erected in 1894, houses the convent Marian chapel and the school library.

Located in Mercy Hall are the placement bureau, chaplain's office, machines room, art studio, and several classrooms.

The Cupola, rising high above Xavier Hall, directs heavenward the hopes and dreams of faculty and students.

Familiar to students, the Sacred Heart statue with arms outstretched beckons all Xaverites, "Come unto Me."

A "NEW LOOK" has appeared in S.X.A.'s neighborhood in the last year. Dexter Manor, a new neighbor, is a modern apartment house for Rhode Island's senior citizens. The multi-story building with its well kept grounds produces a noticeable change in the neighborhood.

A large parking lot, the neighbor on the other side of the school, provides convenience to the motorists of Providence.

These new additions enhance the recognized beauty of our school which is a noted landmark in the Providence area.

DEDICATION

REVEREND THEODORE C. SCHMULTS

THE TRUTH SHALL MAKE YOU FREE. By this maxim do the faculty live. They have dedicated themselves to teaching truth so that by it we may become free. We offer dedication for dedication.

Through our four years, the faculty members have tried to put us on the road to success in this life and success in the next. Sometimes we disagreed with their wisdom; most often we didn't. Many times we laughed with them; many times we poured out our hearts to them. Each time, we witnessed the essence of their lives — love.

In the Divine Will lies their vocation to teach us the arts and sciences, basketball and cooking, social poise and the defense of our Faith. Whether in the classroom, in the lab, or in the studio, our teachers have given their best and will continue to give their best to high school girls who sometimes resist "intellectual persuasion."

We remember our faculty as exemplars of charity, zeal, and scholarship. To the faculty, then, do we, the class of 1963, dedicate this yearbook — a book that is filled with our memories.

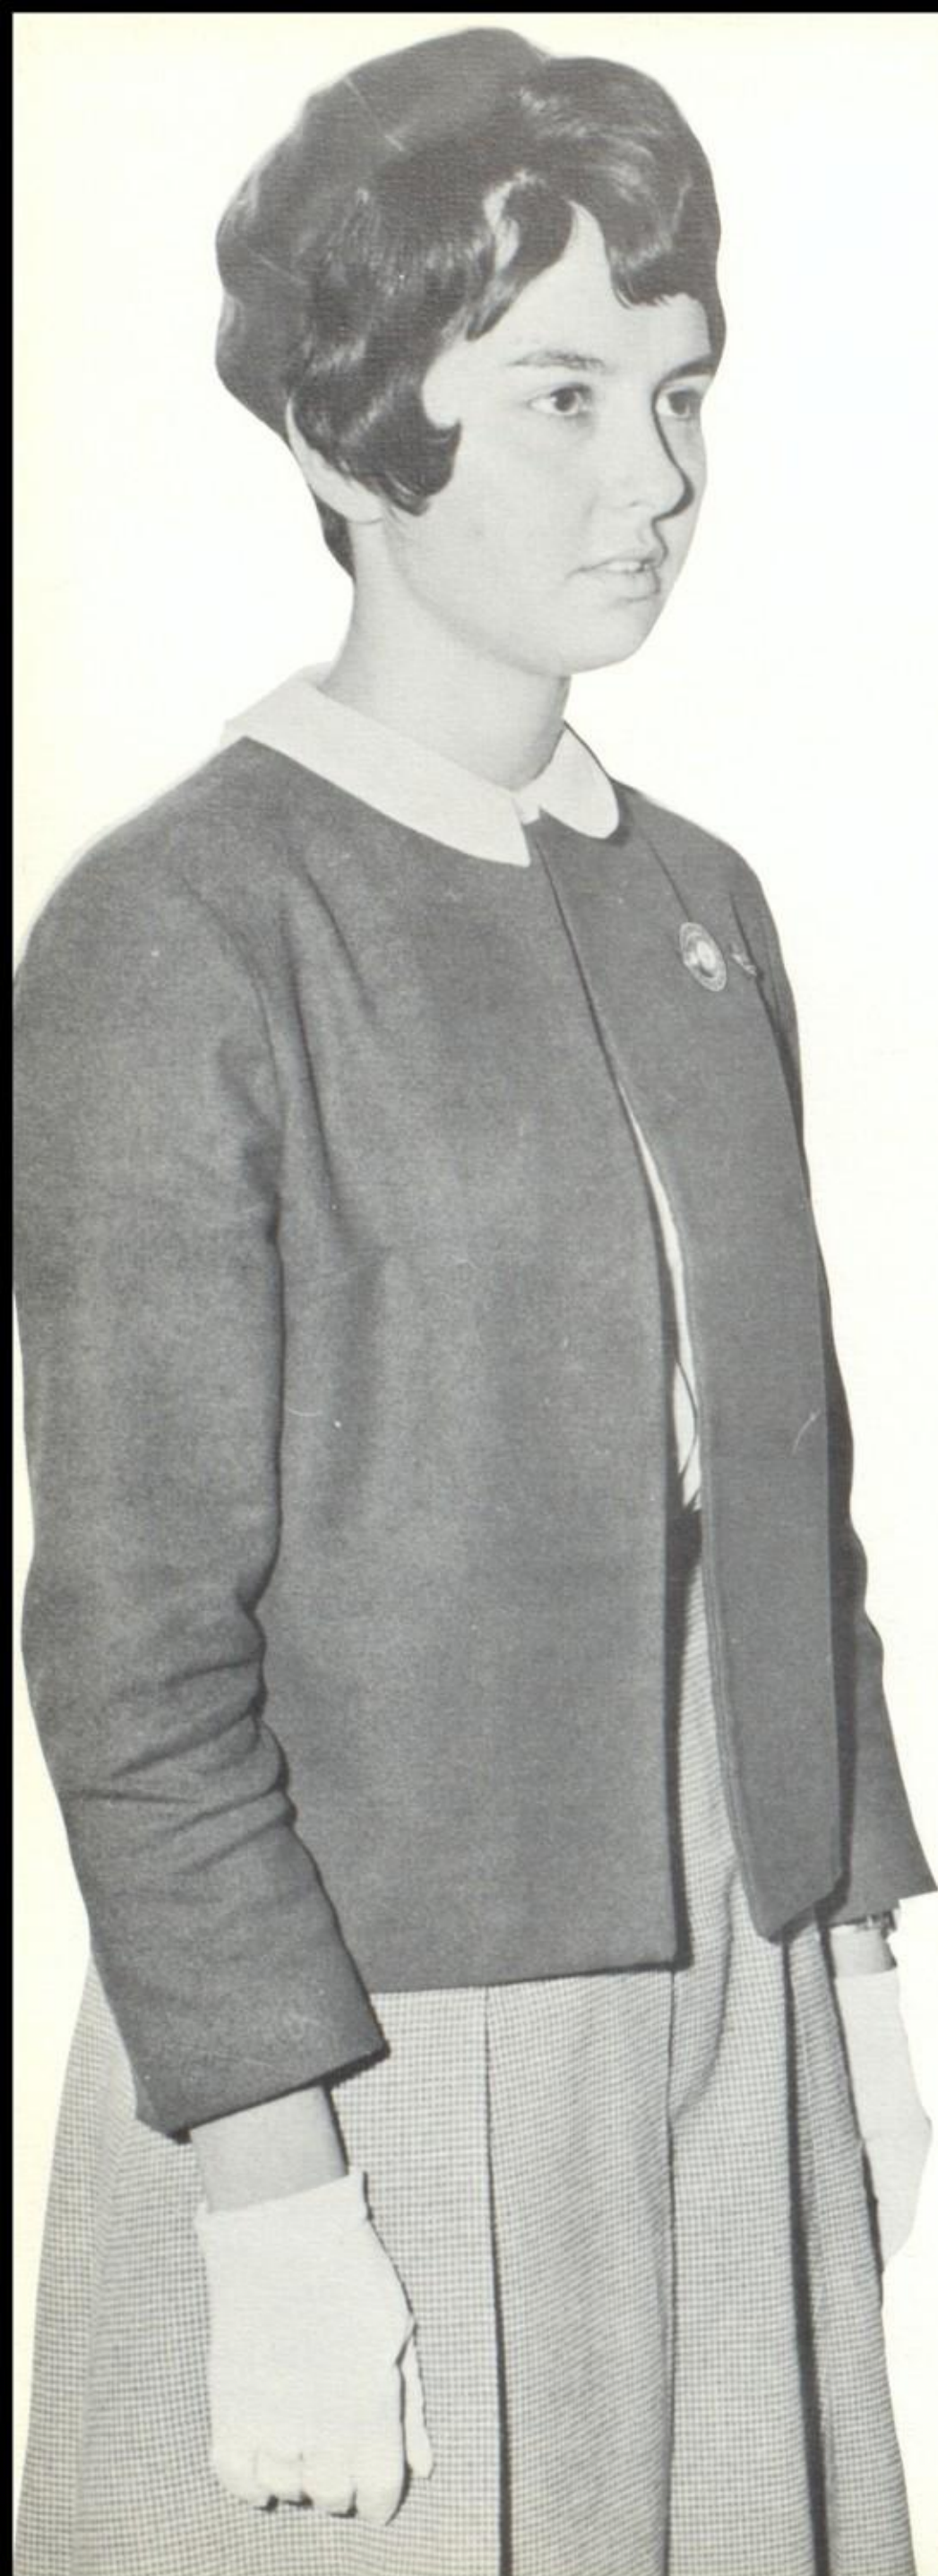

S.M. Andre, S.M. Concepta, S.M. Colette, S.M. Paulette, S.M. Stanislaus, S.M. Paracleta, Miss Rae O'Neill, Mrs. Barbara Larned, S.M. Celestine, S.M. Harold.

S.M. Denis, S.M. Elise, S.M. Seraphine, S.M. Emiliana, S.M. Victoria.

S.M. LaSalette, S.M. Rosellen, S.M. Carmela, S.M. Michaelleen, S.M. Lucretia.

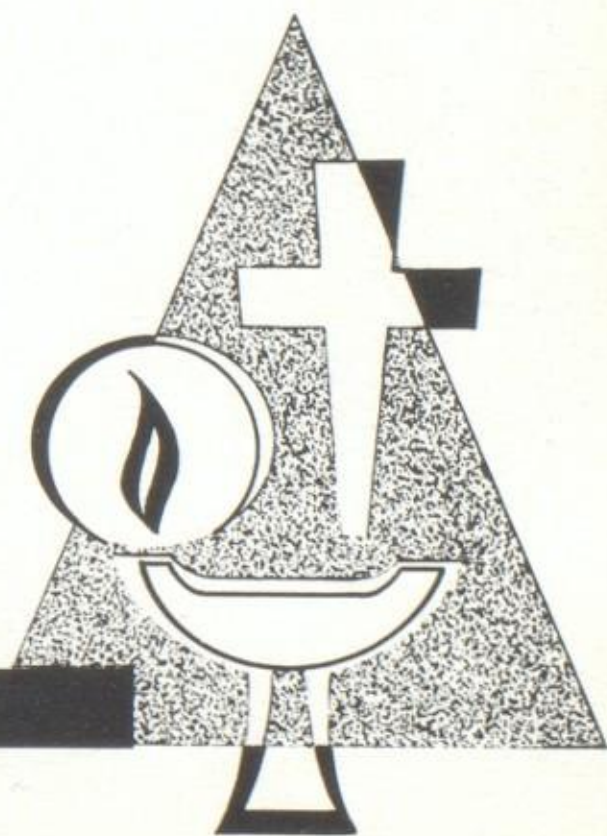

"Their work is

As we, the graduates of 1963, stand on the threshold of the future, we look back down the path of our education. Along the way we see our administrators—teaching, guiding, encouraging, and leading us during our formative high school years. They are the ones who instilled in us a love and desire for knowledge. It is they who led us to realize the importance of our role as young Catholics in the world of today. Tirelessly, they helped us to overcome the stumbling blocks which threatened to thwart our success. To these, our administrators, we extend our deepest gratitude and appreciation. Their work was not done in vain. We wait at the doorway of tomorrow, ready, eager to accept the challenge of the future.

JOSEPH A. DEVANEY
March 16, 1962

"Farewell to St. Xavier's,

"FAREWELL ST. XAVIER'S, FAREWELL TO THEE."

So begins the last song that Rev. Joseph A. Devaney composed. Father died on March 16, 1962, from injuries received in an automobile accident eight days previous.

Father Devaney loved St. Xavier's and demonstrated his love when he composed the "Alma Mater." He wove the familiar words into an original melody that will ring through the halls of St. Xavier's for years to come.

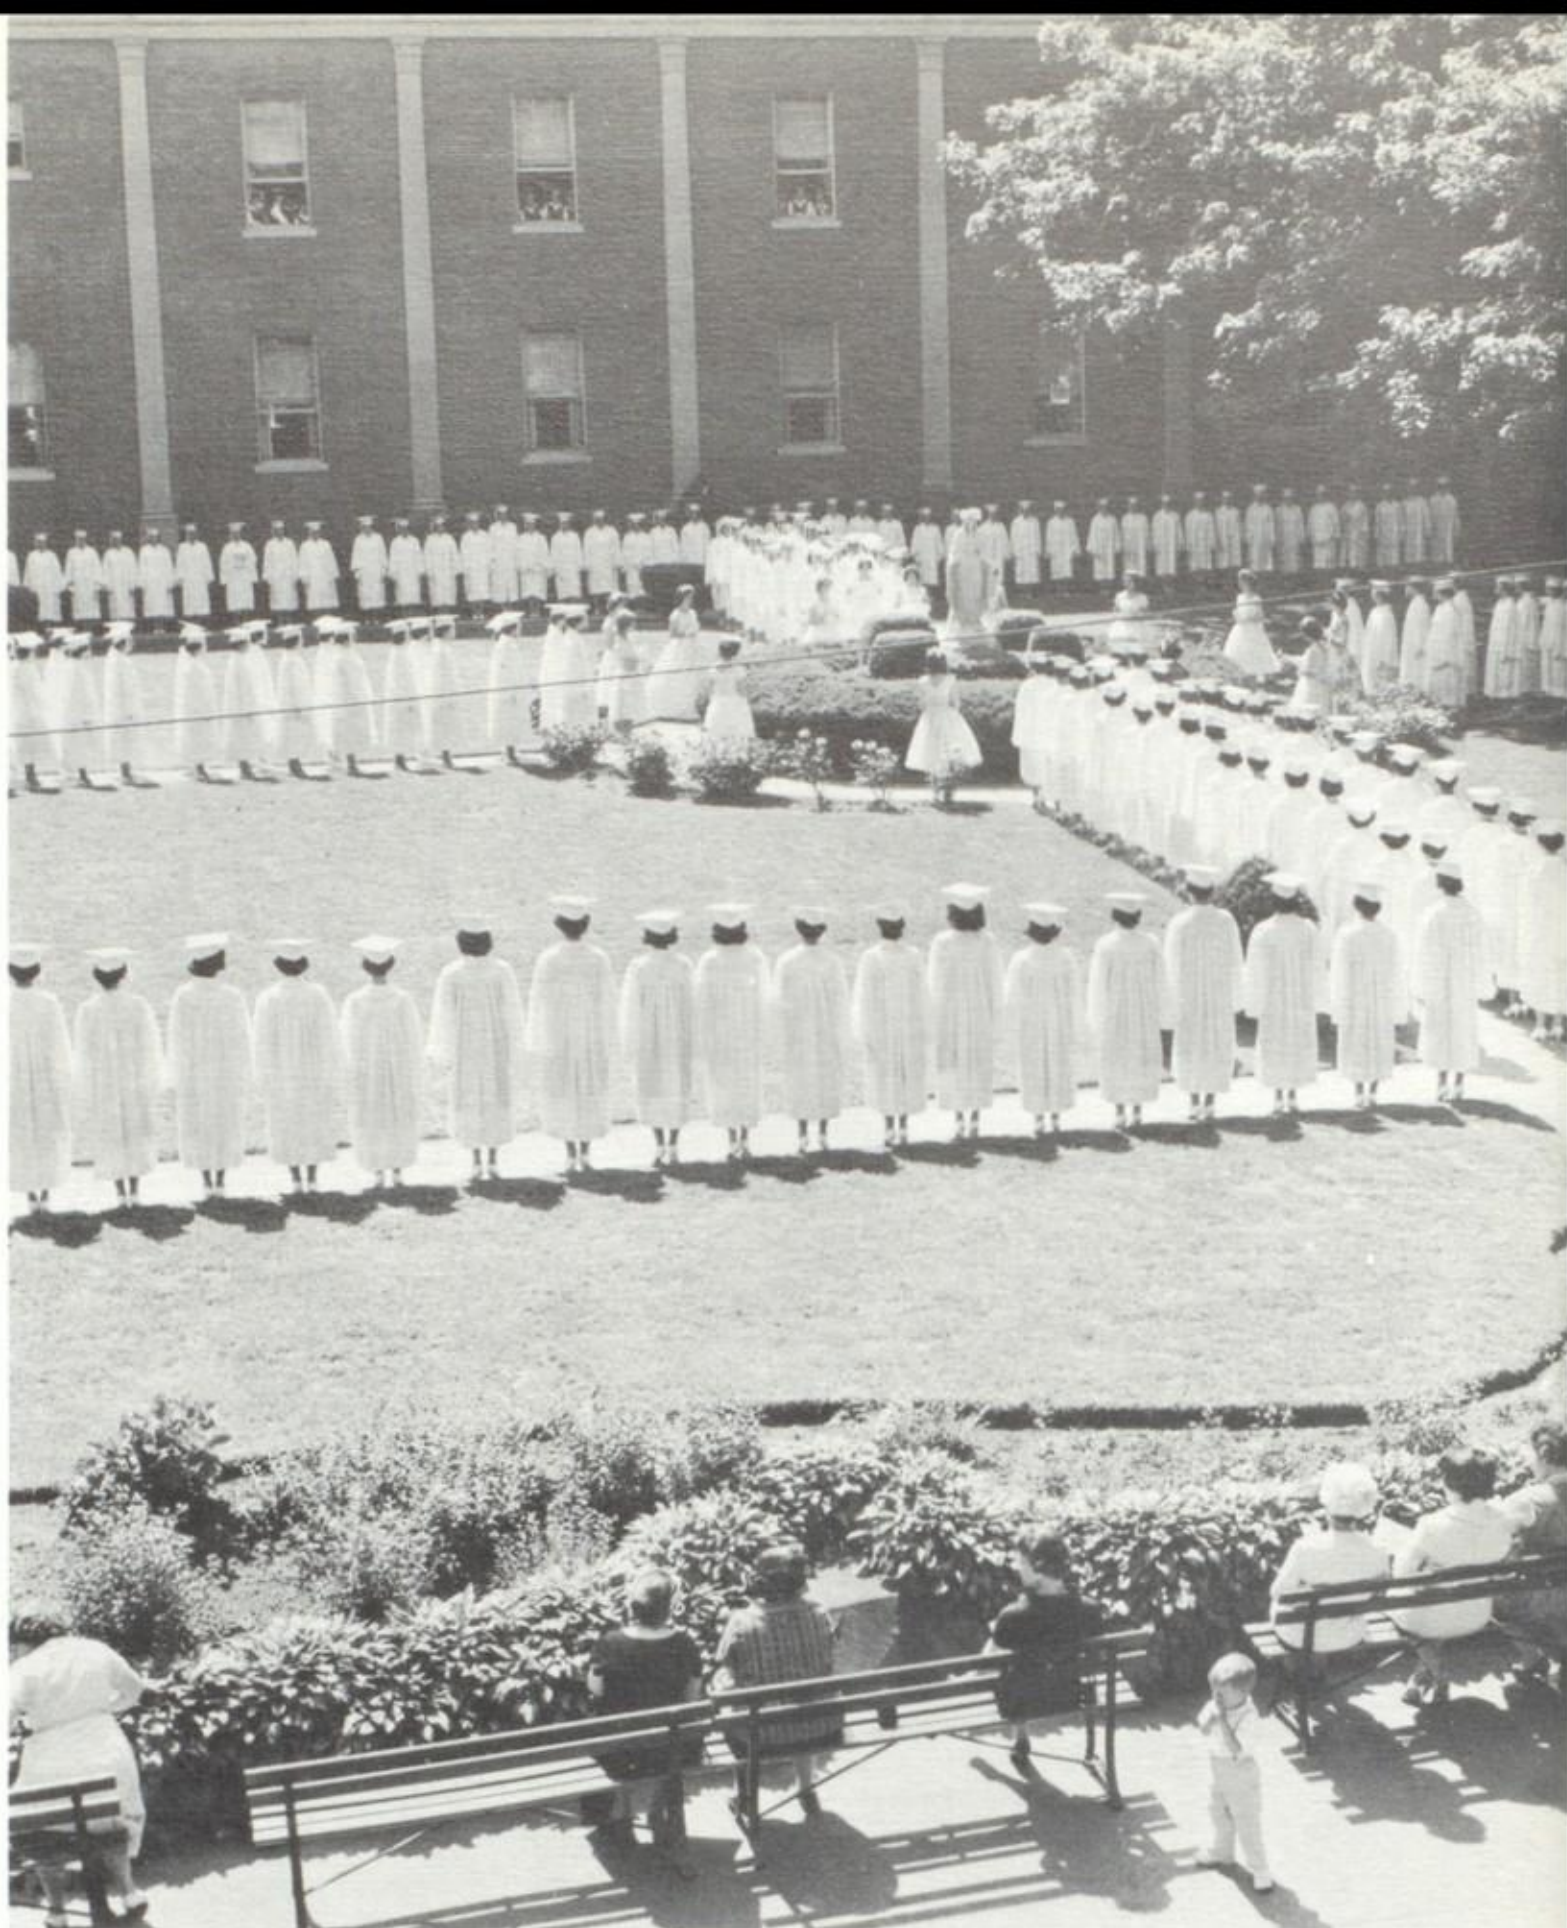

With the intention of acquainting the alumnae with the new "Alma Mater," the Ave Maria Choristers began a project which emerged as a long-playing album. Included on the record was Father's arrangement of "Ave Maria."

Ordained in 1924 at the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D. C., Father Devaney entered upon his priestly life. He served as pastor of St. Vincent's Church, Bradford, and the Immaculate Conception parish in Providence before transferring to St. Peter's Church, Warwick, in 1957. Aside from his duties, he wrote about one hundred musical compositions—both religious and secular works.

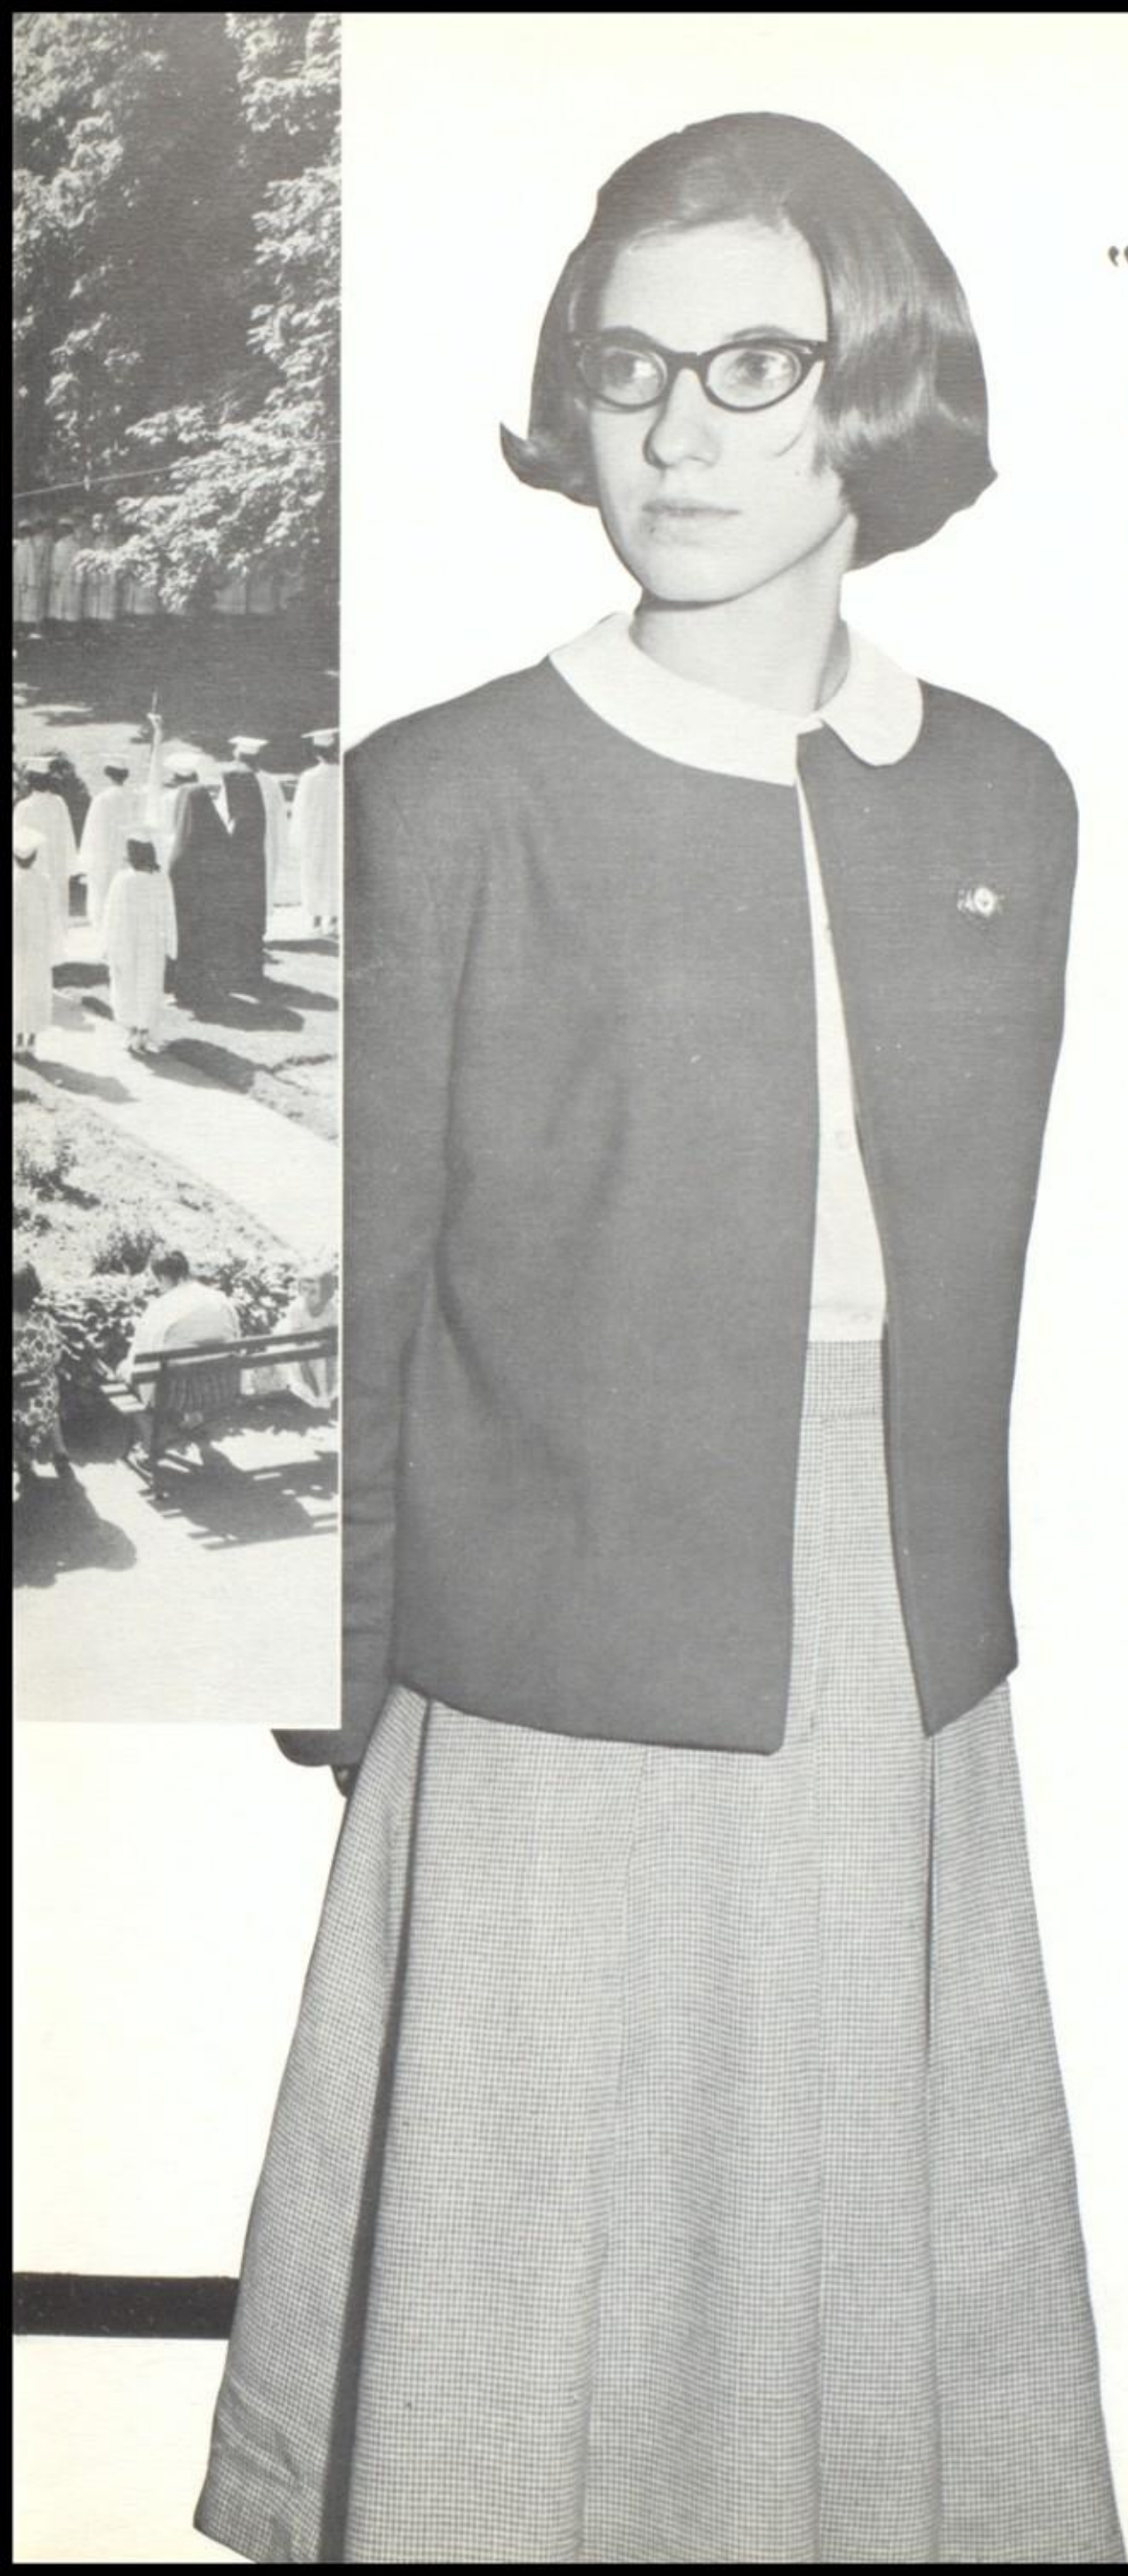

Now he has gone to God, but Father Devaney's great kindness and sense of humor, as well as his music, will remain in the hearts of all who knew him.

Farewell to Thee . . . "

As THE MEMBERS of the Class of 1963 stand on the threshold of life and fix their eyes to the future, they cherish in their hearts the realization that "today well lived makes every yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope."

"We treasure hopes that have become our memories."

Seniors

Fortified by her previous experience as class vice-president and class secretary, Kathleen Donnelly smiles as she executes her duties as president of Senior 111.

Whether conducting a class meeting or presenting class suggestions to the Student Council, Joan Green, president of Senior 115, demonstrates the methods of parliamentary procedure.

Mary Danielian, class vice-president during her sophomore and junior years, reflects on the pains and profits that accompany the office of president of Senior 204.

Mary Martini is certainly worth a million pens. As class president of Senior 102, she leads her class along the "write" path.

Initiative, courage, and sense of responsibility governs each act that Beth Rewucki performs in executing the duties of the president of Senior 206.

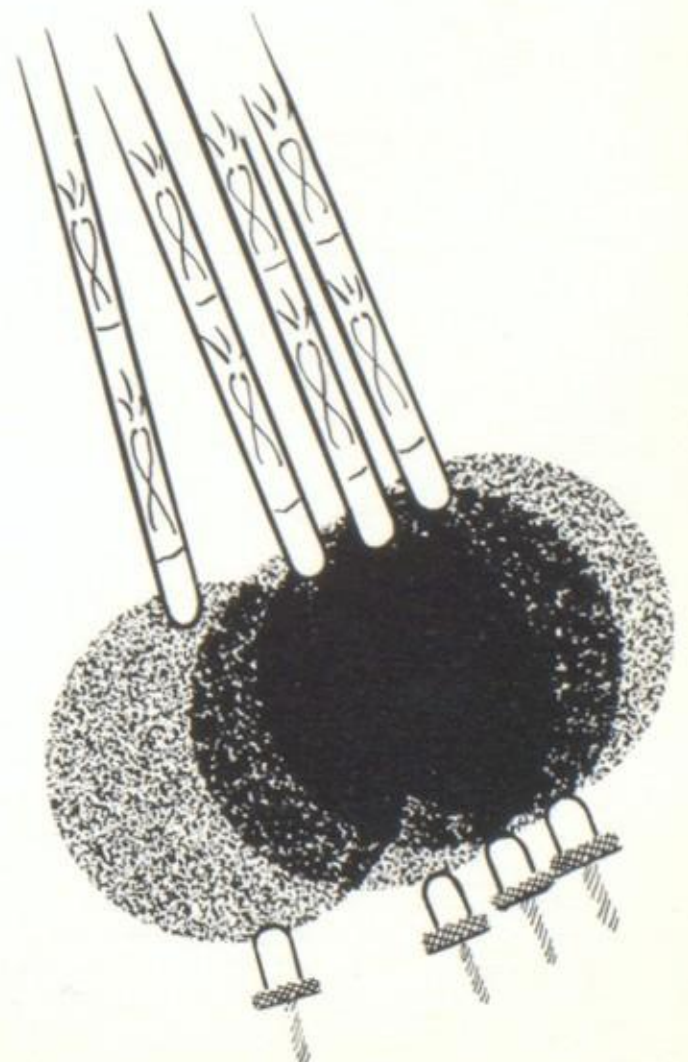

A senior class president is a special kind of person.

She alone possesses the leadership of a general, the dependability of a clock, the loyalty of a patriot, and the spirit of a pep squad.

She, likewise, has clear aims, initiative, a sense of dedication, and the ability to draw dividends from defeat.

Above all, a class president likes people and wants to work with and for them; only by putting herself in second place does she fulfill her responsibility as class leader to the best of her ability.

*"The future that we study and plan
for begins today."*

SAINT XAVIER'S would not be Saint Xavier's without the undergraduates. Seniors may deny it, but secretly they look fondly and perhaps a little wistfully on the gay and carefree freshmen, sophomores, and juniors with whom they have shared happy experiences during their high school days. The graduates, now preparing to leave S.X.A., can see the fruits that these past four years have borne. It is with sorrow, but in hope, that they place the care of their Alma Mater in the capable and loving hands of their younger sisters.

Judy Malo, Margaret Campbell, and Sandra Marzilli depict the mythical sufferings of three "ancient" seniors in welcoming new-coming students on Get-Acquainted Day.

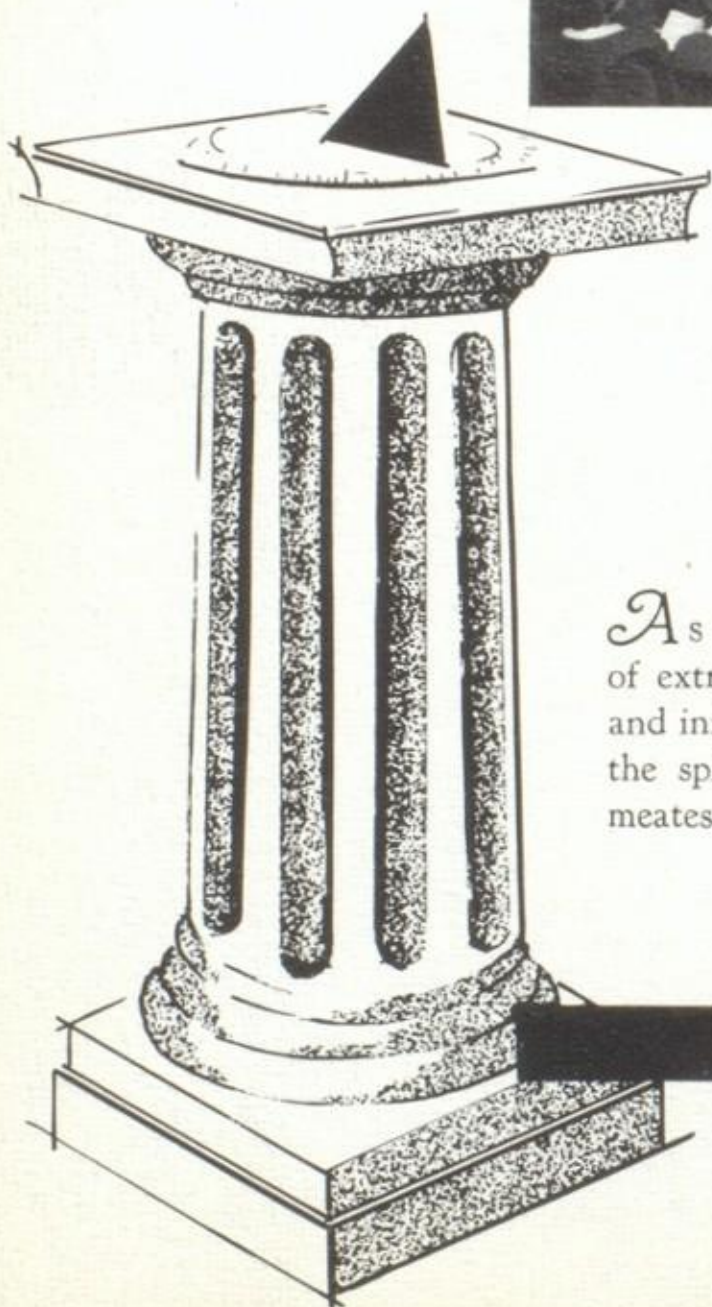

Anne Lancellotti, mistress of ceremonies, warmly welcomes the newcomers to St. Xavier's and invites them to "get acquainted."

"Getting to know you."

As the school day terminates, commencement of extra-curricula prolongs a Xavierite's enthusiasm and initiative. Formula for a day well lived includes the spirit of cooperation and friendship that permeates activities at Saint Xavier's.

"Those who do things that count, never stop to count them."

SODALITY OFFICERS

Kathleen McCarten, last year's Sodality Prefect, presents the symbol of her office, the mallet, to her successor, Margaret Duesing.

Central Council officers—Margaret Duesing, Theresa Marzilli, Maureen McNulty, Patricia O'Donnell, Joanne Mattias and Denise Demers kneel to recite the Act of Consecration.

Dedicated to God and His Mother, Sodalists of Our Lady of Mercy constantly aim toward perfection. Daily duties of Mass and the Rosary aid them in achieving self-sanctification. By performing such apostolic works as teaching catechism or visiting the sick, Sodalists accomplish the secondary goal of Sodality, sanctification of others. This special way of life represents to a Sodalist the means that enable her to reach Jesus through Mary.

The stencil for the Actionist, the Sodality bulletin, meets with approval as Theresa Marzilli, Sodality Vice-Prefect, proofreads it.

Maureen McNulty lends a hand to Ellen Dolan in checking out a book from the Sodality library. Girls may borrow spiritual reading books from the library located on the second floor of Academy Hall.

"Into your keeping I entrust the funds of the Sodality," says Elizabeth McGuinness, retiring treasurer, to Patricia O'Donnell, who accepts the Sodality record book.

Joanne Mattias, First Assistant, prepares mangers as gifts for the Christmas party for retarded children. Such zealous participation in apostolic activities exemplifies the true Sodality spirit.

Surrounded by tape, construction paper, and pictures, Denise Demers performs one of her many duties as Sodality Consultant by arranging a bulletin board to depict developments of the Ecumenical Council.

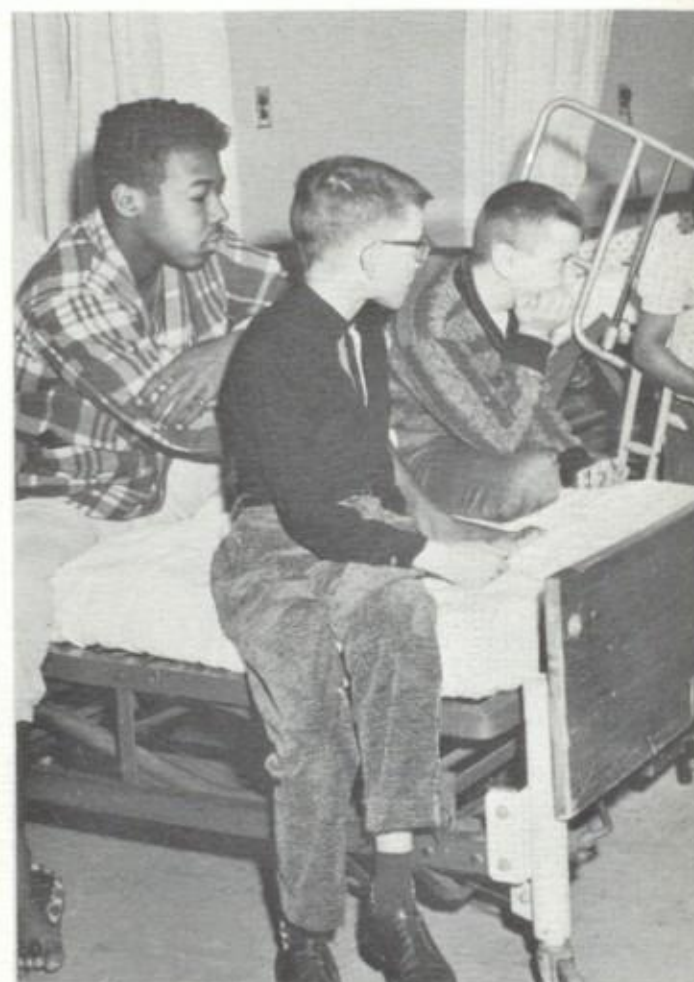

SODALITY APOSTOLATE

In a determined effort to extend the Kingdom of God on earth, Sodalists engage in various apostolic works. They exercise their apostolate by visiting the sick, teaching catechism at Crawford-Allen Hospital, and sending much-needed clothing to the missions.

This year, a new branch of the apostolate was introduced. Motivated by a desire to bring Christ's message of salvation to the entire Mystical Body, junior and senior Sodalists initiated instruction classes for retarded children. Each week, these children are taught the basic truths of our religion and the fundamental prayers necessary for their reception of Holy Communion.

Revival of the Actionist also resulted in an important accomplishment. The Actionist, a monthly bulletin, aimed to inform the student body of Sodality activities. The apostolate constitutes a strenuous endeavor on the part of the Sodalist to bring Christ to the world. However, each Sodalist meets this challenge with deep joy and sincere good-will.

Sodalists and their young charges watch a filmstrip during a weekly instruction class in catechism for retarded children. As her apostolic work, each girl works with an individual child, teaching him prayers or explaining truths of the faith to him.

Mary Gorman, Mary Lou Mazza, Linda Rafferty, Elaine Zoglio and Jane Dinucci chat with Reverend Bernard M. Kelly of Our Lady of Providence Seminary. Father Kelly conducted a Day of Recollection for members of the diocesan Sodality Union.

Lillian Shewchuk, junior sodalist, works zealously at her apostolate, religious education of the children at the Crawford Allen Hospital. Apostolic activity is the natural outgrowth of the personal spiritual life of each true Sodalist.

Ann Hart, active sodalist in the Junior Sodality, teaches catechism to children at the Crawford Allen Hospital in preparation for the reception of their First Holy Communion.

STUDENT COUNCIL

"To love, to sacrifice, to work." Under the patronage of the Holy Spirit, Student Council members strive to fulfill this, their motto. Each week the five senior officers and two representatives from each homeroom meet to discuss school problems and improvements and to plan various social functions.

Dianne Bouthillier, past president, leads the newly-elected Student Council officers, Janice Solomon, Sandra Marzilli, Judy Malo, Margaret Campbell, and Patricia DeLisle, in the recitation of the oath of office. Retiring officers, Jane Tully, Carmen Tamelio, and Susan Allard, listen approvingly. Thus began the Student Council's second successful year.

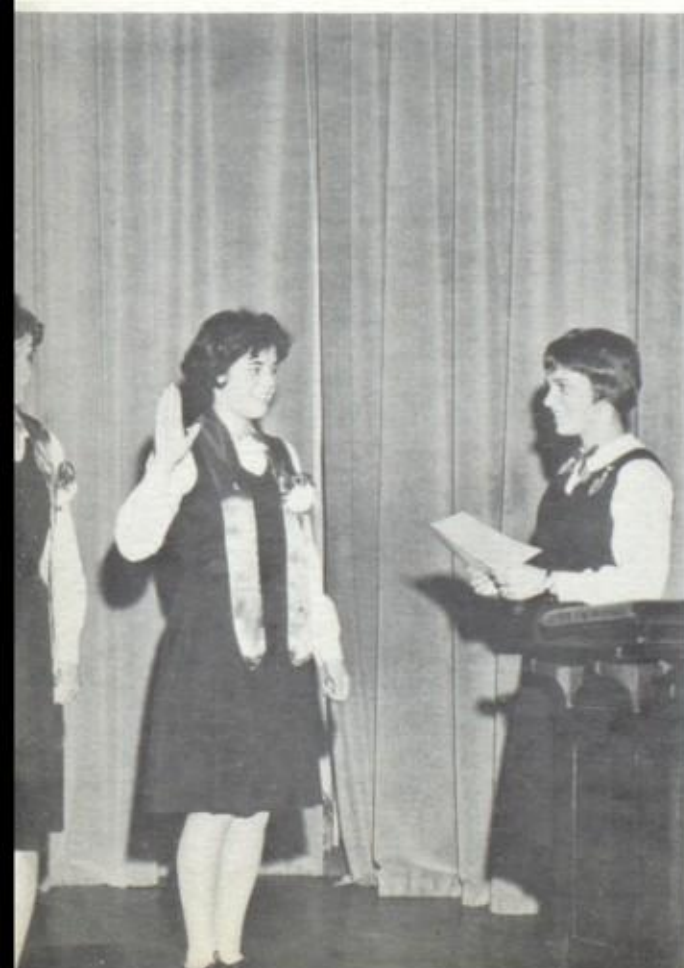

Sandra Marzilla
Corresponding Secretary

Janice Solomon
Treasurer

Sandra Marzilla, corresponding secretary, Patricia DeLisle, president, and Margaret Campbell, vice-president, discuss the new Honor Code put into effect this year. This code, devised by Mary Danielian, serves as a basis for the honor system. To support this endeavor, each Xavierite gives earnest cooperation.

STUDENT COUNCIL

As Harvest Hop time approaches, Margaret Campbell and Pamela Porter busily add the finishing touches to the programs for the dance. Council members designed and made this year's programs.

"No, you have to make that design a little larger," says Elizabeth Rewucki as Mary Martini draws the cover for the Harvest Hop program.

ACTIVITIES

Members pledge themselves to abide by the rules and regulations of the Student Council as they make their oath of loyalty. Representatives include class presidents and elected delegates from each home-room.

Nancy Huling, Patricia Cox, and Patricia Coressel work "overtime" at making Christmas gift tags from used Christmas Cards. The Student Council sponsored this as one of several projects to replenish Council funds.

Miss Madeleine Green describes Ann O'Connor's outfit in a fashion show from Simplicity Patterns. New ideas for fall styles were shown by our own models.

Maureen Raia, Jane McAloon, Nancy Bailey, Karen Taafe, Janet Pezzullo, Nancy Huling, Jacqueline Beattie, Patricia Ahearn, Sandra Marzilli, Elizabeth Flannagan, Ann Sparks, Patricia Gorman, and Aurise Ryan were on the writing staff for the 1963 Xavier. After this obliging pause in their "after-hours" of word counts and identification of pictures, the girls resumed discussion of who would write the caption for this one.

Dismissal time during November, December, and January found the Xavierette Room humming with activity. Members of the literary, business, and typing staffs worked diligently on this, their legacy to their academy, the 1963 Xavier. Denise Demers served as editor-in-chief of the annual.

Under the guidance and direction of Sister Mary Sharon and Sister Mary Prudentia, the members of the literary staff wrote captions, composed copy, proofread, and checked senior biographies. In January, the business staff began soliciting advertisements and patrons. Girls chosen from the business training course typed all yearbook material.

Xavier Staff

Denise Demers gestures emphatically to prove her point, but Jane Healey, assistant editor, remains unconvinced. A heated discussion of the Xavier cover design followed.

Pleasant faces reflect pleasant work. For the pause that refreshes, ten members of the 1963 Xavier staff enjoy a brief break before putting the final touches on those captions.

Denise Demers, yearbook editor, proved her competence in compiling the 1963 Xavier. Besides designing the cover, she planned informal pictures and snapped some "on-the-spot" features.

Mary Martini, invaluable assistant of The Xavierette staff and capable campaign manager for Xavier ads, employs her typing skill for publications.

Patricia Cox and Anne Marie Riccitelli listen as Margaret Campbell describes her experiences in Washington, D. C., during the summer. Peggy represented Rhode Island at Girls' Nation, where she, along with ninety-nine other girls from every state in the union, participated in government activities.

WORLD AFFAIRS

Under the direction of Sister Mary Harold, the World Affairs Forum meets weekly to discuss conditions in the "trouble spots" of the world. Each week girls give talks on current topics. A discussion then ensues in which any questions concerning the material which has just been presented are answered. Meetings enable the girls to realize the importance of each country in world peace.

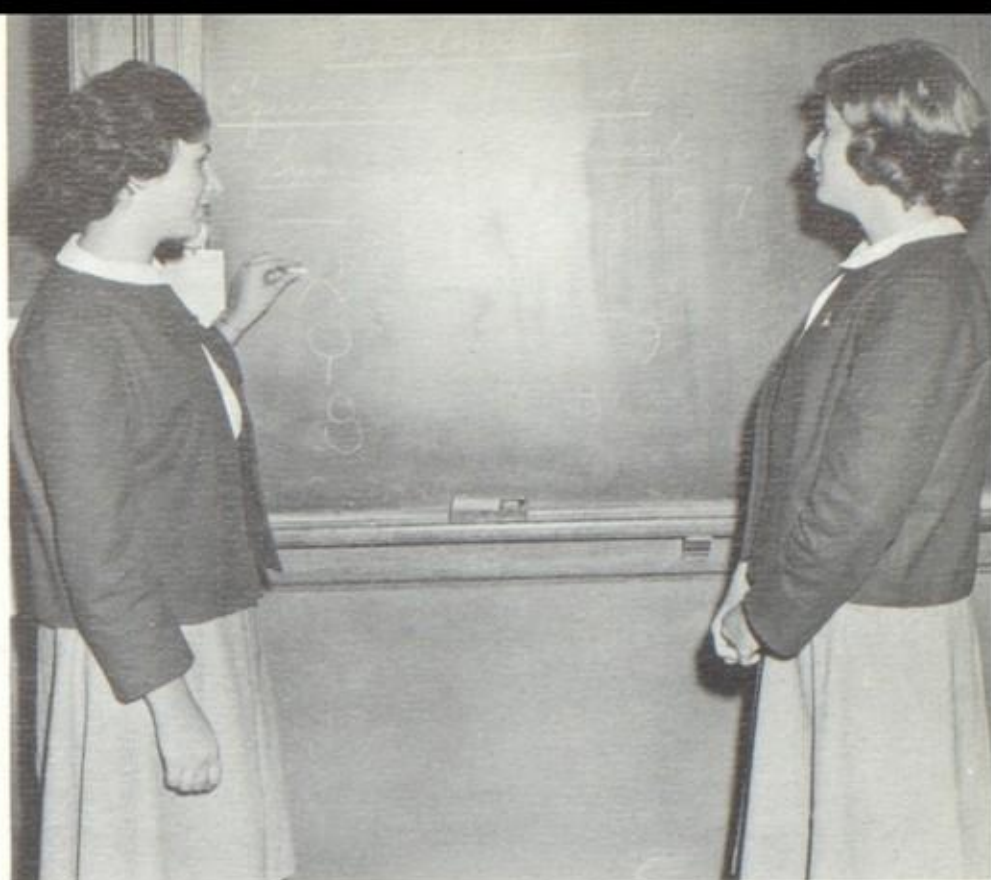

"I think it should be South America!" Pamela Porter, Ann O'Conner, Judith Pailthorpe, Mary Jane Boisvert, and Eleanor Clingham look up topics for discussion at their next meeting. Members of the World Affairs Forum, through discussion and debate, keep abreast of the world's latest happenings.

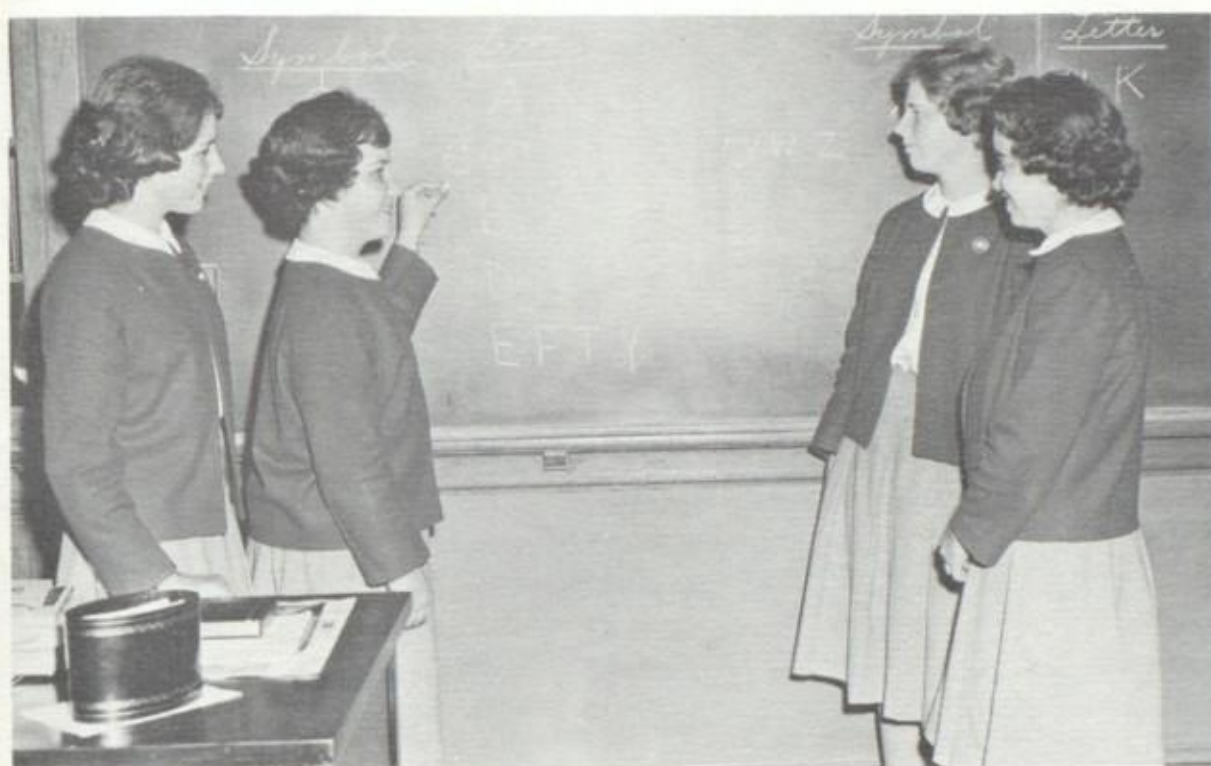

Members of Junior World Affairs Forum, Marcia McCormick, Catherine Robinson, Jeannie Ball, and Paula Walker, approve Linda Rafferty's suggestion of using the Cuban crisis as the topic of an upcoming panel discussion. Providing an opportunity to clarify any misconceptions about current affairs, the Forum frequently conducts such discussions.

MATH CLUB

Upperclassmen joined the Math Club for the first time this year. Under the direction of Sister Mary Colette, the co-curricular activity was previously composed of freshmen only. The club serves as a supplement to the regular mathematics class. Because of the large number of members, the freshmen and sophomores have the meeting on Wednesday night and the juniors and seniors have it on Tuesday night.

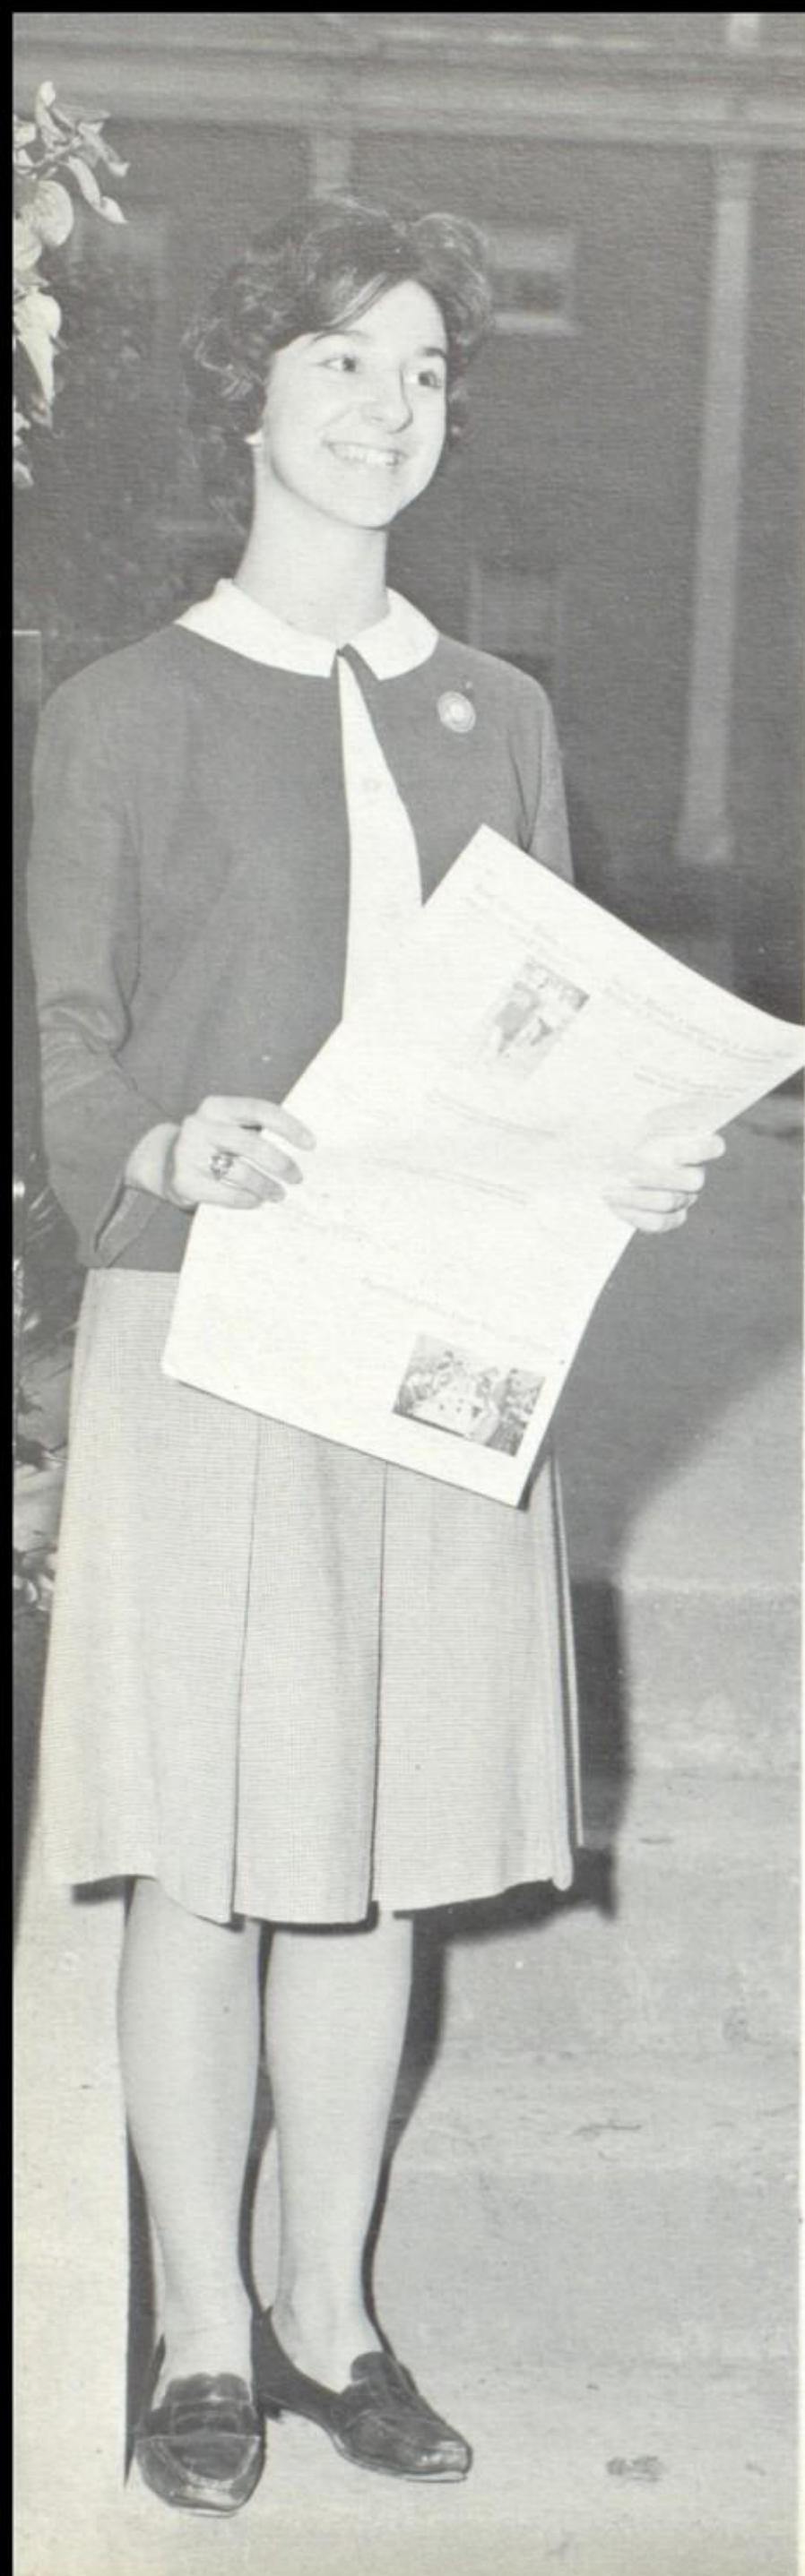

Gertrude Croke explains a principle of arithmetic to Eileen Matrullo. Through the Math Club, girls interested in a career in math are given an opportunity to excel further in this field.

Doris Spenser explains the properties of topologically equivalent letters as Denise Rondeau, Maureen Hanrahan, and Kathleen Ellinwood listen. In Mathematics Club there's more to the alphabet than meets the eye.

In preparation for a future meeting, Math Club members, Margaret Dillon, Mary Ellen Hardiman, Susan McGarry, Joanne Malo, and Annette Rubino plan a discussion on statistics and probability.

Under the direction of Sister Mary Sharon and Sister Mary Prudentia, members of the journalism staff publish The Xavierette bi-monthly throughout the school year. The newspaper acts as a public relations media, informing the faculty, students, and community of activities in and around Saint Xavier's through news, feature and sports stories, columns and editorials. Staff members in the business course type assignments, and page editors fit galley sheets on dummy pages to send to press.

Students on high school newspapers today find the experience useful "tomorrow." The objective writing called for by the news story teaches them to express themselves on paper, a definite advantage in college or the business world.

Anne Lewis, editor-in-chief, and Anne Lancellotti, page editor, plan the layout for The Xavierette. In addition to assignments of writing features, news stories, and editorials, the girls' other contributions to the bi-monthly school newspaper include proof-reading and caption and headline writing.

◀ Anne Lewis, editor of The Xavierette, smiles approvingly as she reads the first edition. Anne attended a journalism institute at Catholic University last summer to prepare her for the duties she assumed this year.

Xavierette Staff

It's not often we see the Xavierette Staff standing around doing nothing. Here are six members of this year's crew—Theresa Marzilli, Dorothy Furey, Jane Dufresne, Constance Quirk, Anne Lancellotti, and Margaret Duesing. Now it's back to work, girls!

Unlike Sandy Arnone and Sheila Grady for whom the dismissal bell means time for play, Marianne Bizzinski, teen-page reporter for Journal-Bulletin, continues her wearisome toil.

Maureen McNulty, Mary Miers, and Patricia DeLisle address envelopes to schools on The Xavierette exchange list. Exchanging papers with other high schools in the country promotes a better understanding among students.

ORCHESTRA

Flutist, Joanna Souto; and violinists, Katherine Doyle, Susan Casey, Janice Clampet, Ann Sparks, Anne Marie Dubuque, and Mary Conaty, contribute the sweet sounds of their stringed instruments to the school orchestra. Ann Sparks, Anne Marie Dubuque, and Susan Casey are winners of St. Xavier's music scholarships.

In the school orchestra, many Xavierites become fluent in a universal language, music. Mr. Joseph Conte and Sister Marie Marguerite provide instruction and direction, seeing to it that pronunciation and expressions are correct. As a result of their efforts, harmony of opinions is produced from the high, sweet voice of the flutist down to the commanding monotone of the bass drummer. These industrious students speak their new language at school assemblies, operettas, and plays. At the annual joint concert with Mount Saint Mary's Academy, Fall River, they are afforded an opportunity to exchange conversation with other students of the language. To encourage speech by stringed instruments, one full tuition scholarship is offered every year to deserving applicants.

Mr. Joseph Conte, conductor of the academy orchestra, instructs the members in technique and guides them to a greater appreciation for music.

Boom! Crash! Rat-a-tat-tat! Jacquelyn Dufresne, Sheila Banigan, and Eleanor Clingham provide the volume and the measured beats of the percussion section of the orchestra.

The xylophone and wind section of the orchestra proudly display their instruments. Eager to begin practice again are (first row) Eileen Lynch, clarinet; Geraldine Szarko, French horn; Jane Dinucci, clarinet; (second row) Roberta Sabella, saxophone; Patricia McArdle, Patricia Coutcher, and Margaret McQueeney, xylophone players.

Piano concertos, modern jazz, and semi-classical tunes come easy to the pianists in the orchestra. The smiling faces of Lillian Brown, Joy Waldeck, Janet Pezzullo, Kathleen Driscoll, and Alma Duckworth reflect the fun they have in performing and —yes, even in practicing.

"Whistle (or smile) while you work!" Pat Jackson and Shirley Healey certainly don't seem to mind the clean-up task after cooking club. Why, it looks almost as much fun as eating the finished product!

Marcia Terry prepares biscuits which, along with sugar bubbles and popovers, were included in the cooking fare of breakfast goodies made by the club this year.

HOME ECONOMICS

Roseanne Hughes, Linda Fisler, Donna Di Simone, and Carol Morris display their talent in making muffins. During the first semester the girls learn the art of cooking, while the second semester is devoted to developing sewing skills.

Carol Donelan is throwing a dish on the electric potter's wheel while Jeanne Antaya admires her dexterity in handling the clay on the rapidly spinning wheel.

Madonna Marsocci examines ceramics from Mexico and Italy to compare their techniques of making and glazing.

ART CLUB

Pamela Ware, Cynthia Mongeau, and Mary Kiselica learn how to make and use two- and three-piece molds. After the greenware shaped in the molds becomes bisque, they use the wax-resist method, the sgraffito method of decoration, engobe painting, slip trailing and drip glazing.

GLEE CLUB

A "first" in the history of St. Xavier's is a long playing album recorded by the Ave Maria Choristers. It was originally planned to immortalize our "Alma Mater."

The Glee Club, under the direction of Sister Marie Andre, has become more than an extra-curricular activity in the eyes of every Xavierite. It is now an inseparable part of school life. The club has initiated "The Melody Lingers On," its first musical revue, a pops concert, and also a nationally distributed album recorded by the Ave Maria Choristers.

In view of its long and successful association with Mr. C. Alexander Peloquin, the Glee Club again participated with the Peloquin Chorale in singing the Missa Christus Rex on the feast of Christ the King. As an added honor, Mr. Peloquin requested the Choristers to join St. Charles High School Glee Club, his own chorale, and Our Lady of Providence Seminary choir in singing a solemn high Mass on Christmas Eve.

Frances Tenaglia, Rita Martel, Diane Cedarcrans, Brenda Kryston, Maria Capraro, Kathleen O'Donnell and Jane Brodie practice Christmas carols for the school assembly. This year the Glee Club sang at the Midnight Mass in the Cathedral.

First row: Frances D'Angelo, Paula Blessington, Joy Manoli, Janice Branigan, Kathleen Mimnaugh, Hope Lachapelle, Karen Tatro, Karen Cusick. Second row: Lynn Tierney, Sheila Grady, Sandy Arnone, Francine Beausejour, Geraldine Mackie, Patricia Moreau, Alice McCormick, Sharon Hosey, Mary Little. Third row: Margaret Appleton, Rosemary Clooney, Aurise Ryan, Maureen Thornton, Diane Anderson, Louise Miner, Ellen Fredette, Paola Leopizzi. Last row: Doreen Martel, Janice Blais, Jane McAloon, Patricia Gorman, Maureen Fitzgerald, Nancy Bailey, Dennice Guillette, Sharon Fleury, Mary Ann Gorman.

Sister Marie Andre rehearses Rita Martel, Eileen Bajorek, and Dianne Briggs for the Glee Club's spring concert which was held for the benefit of the Catholic Charities Fund.

Lorraine Feeney, Constance Quirk, Diane Briggs and Dianne Colonna, senior members of the Ave Maria Choristers, smile happily for the audience.

Maureen Thornton and Henry Trembly, Margaret Sliney and John Simpson take advantage of the music at the Harvest Hop. The gym was decorated with scarecrows and pumpkins for the occasion.

For a successful Harvest Hop take two or more excited couples, a dash of good music, cold drinks for all, fifty or sixty potato chips, and mix well with hours of lively conversation—advises Lillian Shewchuk.

"Harvest Hop"

Smiles are indicative of the joy experienced by Xavierites as they waltzed with the boy of their dreams. "They could have danced all night."

"Fathers' Night"

Sharyn Hosey, Claire Boggioni, and Maureen Brady relax during a friendly chat on Fathers' Night.

Pamela Companini, Lillian Shewchuck, and Jeanne Thompson serve punch to dads.

Mary and Patricia Gorman and Mary Lynch enjoy Pepsis with their dads.

Who but Dad could have energy to spare for a fun-filled night of dancing at the annual Father's Night Dance? Xavierites, accompanied by their favorite escorts, stepped lively to the beat of Tommy Masso's orchestra as they did the jitterbug and the ever popular Mexican Hat Dance. A refreshing cup of punch tasted good after such strenuous dancing. The conclusion of a memorable evening came as girls and their dads joined in prayer to Our Blessed Mother.

After a peppy Fox Trot, Kathleen Kehoe, Kathleen Darigan, and Barbara Watson pause with their dads to enjoy some punch.

Jacqueline Lynch and Norman Todd admire Stephen Daignon's choice of Patricia Lannon's wrist corsage.

April showers brought May flowers, which Xavierites adorned for the junior prom. With roses, orchids, and carnations fastened to the wrists of 200 waltzing Cinderellas, and peach blossoms ornamenting the foyer and walls of the gym, the total effect resembled a fairyland garden, filled with gay spirits. Among the gayest were Tommy Masso and his orchestra, whose silver tones pervaded the room. At 11:30 p.m. the spirits disappeared from the enchanted garden, but at midnight they were all found at the Palace of Rhodes, enjoying a post-prom party. At 1:30 a.m., though waltzing feet had ceased, sparkling eyes were still dancing.

Members of the Class of '63 and their dates add a happy note to their treasury of memories as they join in the Grand March at the Junior Prom.

Laughing juniors and their dashing escorts gaily "hop-hop-hop" at the memorable Junior Prom. As the perfect end to a perfect evening, juniors attended a post-prom party held at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet.

JUNIOR PROM

Elizabeth Flannagan and her date, Michael Costigan, dance gracefully to the music of Tommy Masso's orchestra. This happy couple represents all the princes and princesses that attended the 1962 Junior Prom.

"I had a wonderful time, but, oh, my feet . . .!" exclaims Margaret Callan to Peter Geisser. Two hours of dancing would make any Cinderella aware of her "glass" slippers and her feet.

"I could have danced all night."

A medley of old time favorites brings down the curtain on St. Xavier's first Musical Revue as the entire cast assembles for the Grand Finale.

Enthusiastic audiences were filled with nostalgic memories at the sight of such great performers as Al Jolson, Shirley Temple, and Fred Astaire, as the Glee Club and the Dramatics Club of St. Xavier's Academy joined to present the "Musical Revue" on May 5, 6, and 7. Patricia Paglio was choreographer for the entire Revue, which Sister Marie Andre arranged and directed.

Floradora girls, a charleston chorus line, ballroom dancers, and a barbershop quartet sang and danced for four fun-filled performances. Harmon Guertin, Ernest Colonna, Denis Moore, David Monaghan, Rico Di Prete, and Cheryl LaCrosse were enlisted as guest performers.

Maureen Thornton, Joan Wilkens, and Paola Leopizzi give their interpretation of a ballet made popular during the 1930's.

"Musical Revue"

Kathleen Donnelly, Anne Lancellotti, Patricia DeLisle, and Margaret Duesing harmonize with the tune "Be My Little Baby Bumblebee." Their barbershop quartet routine portrayed a popular singing style of the "twenties."

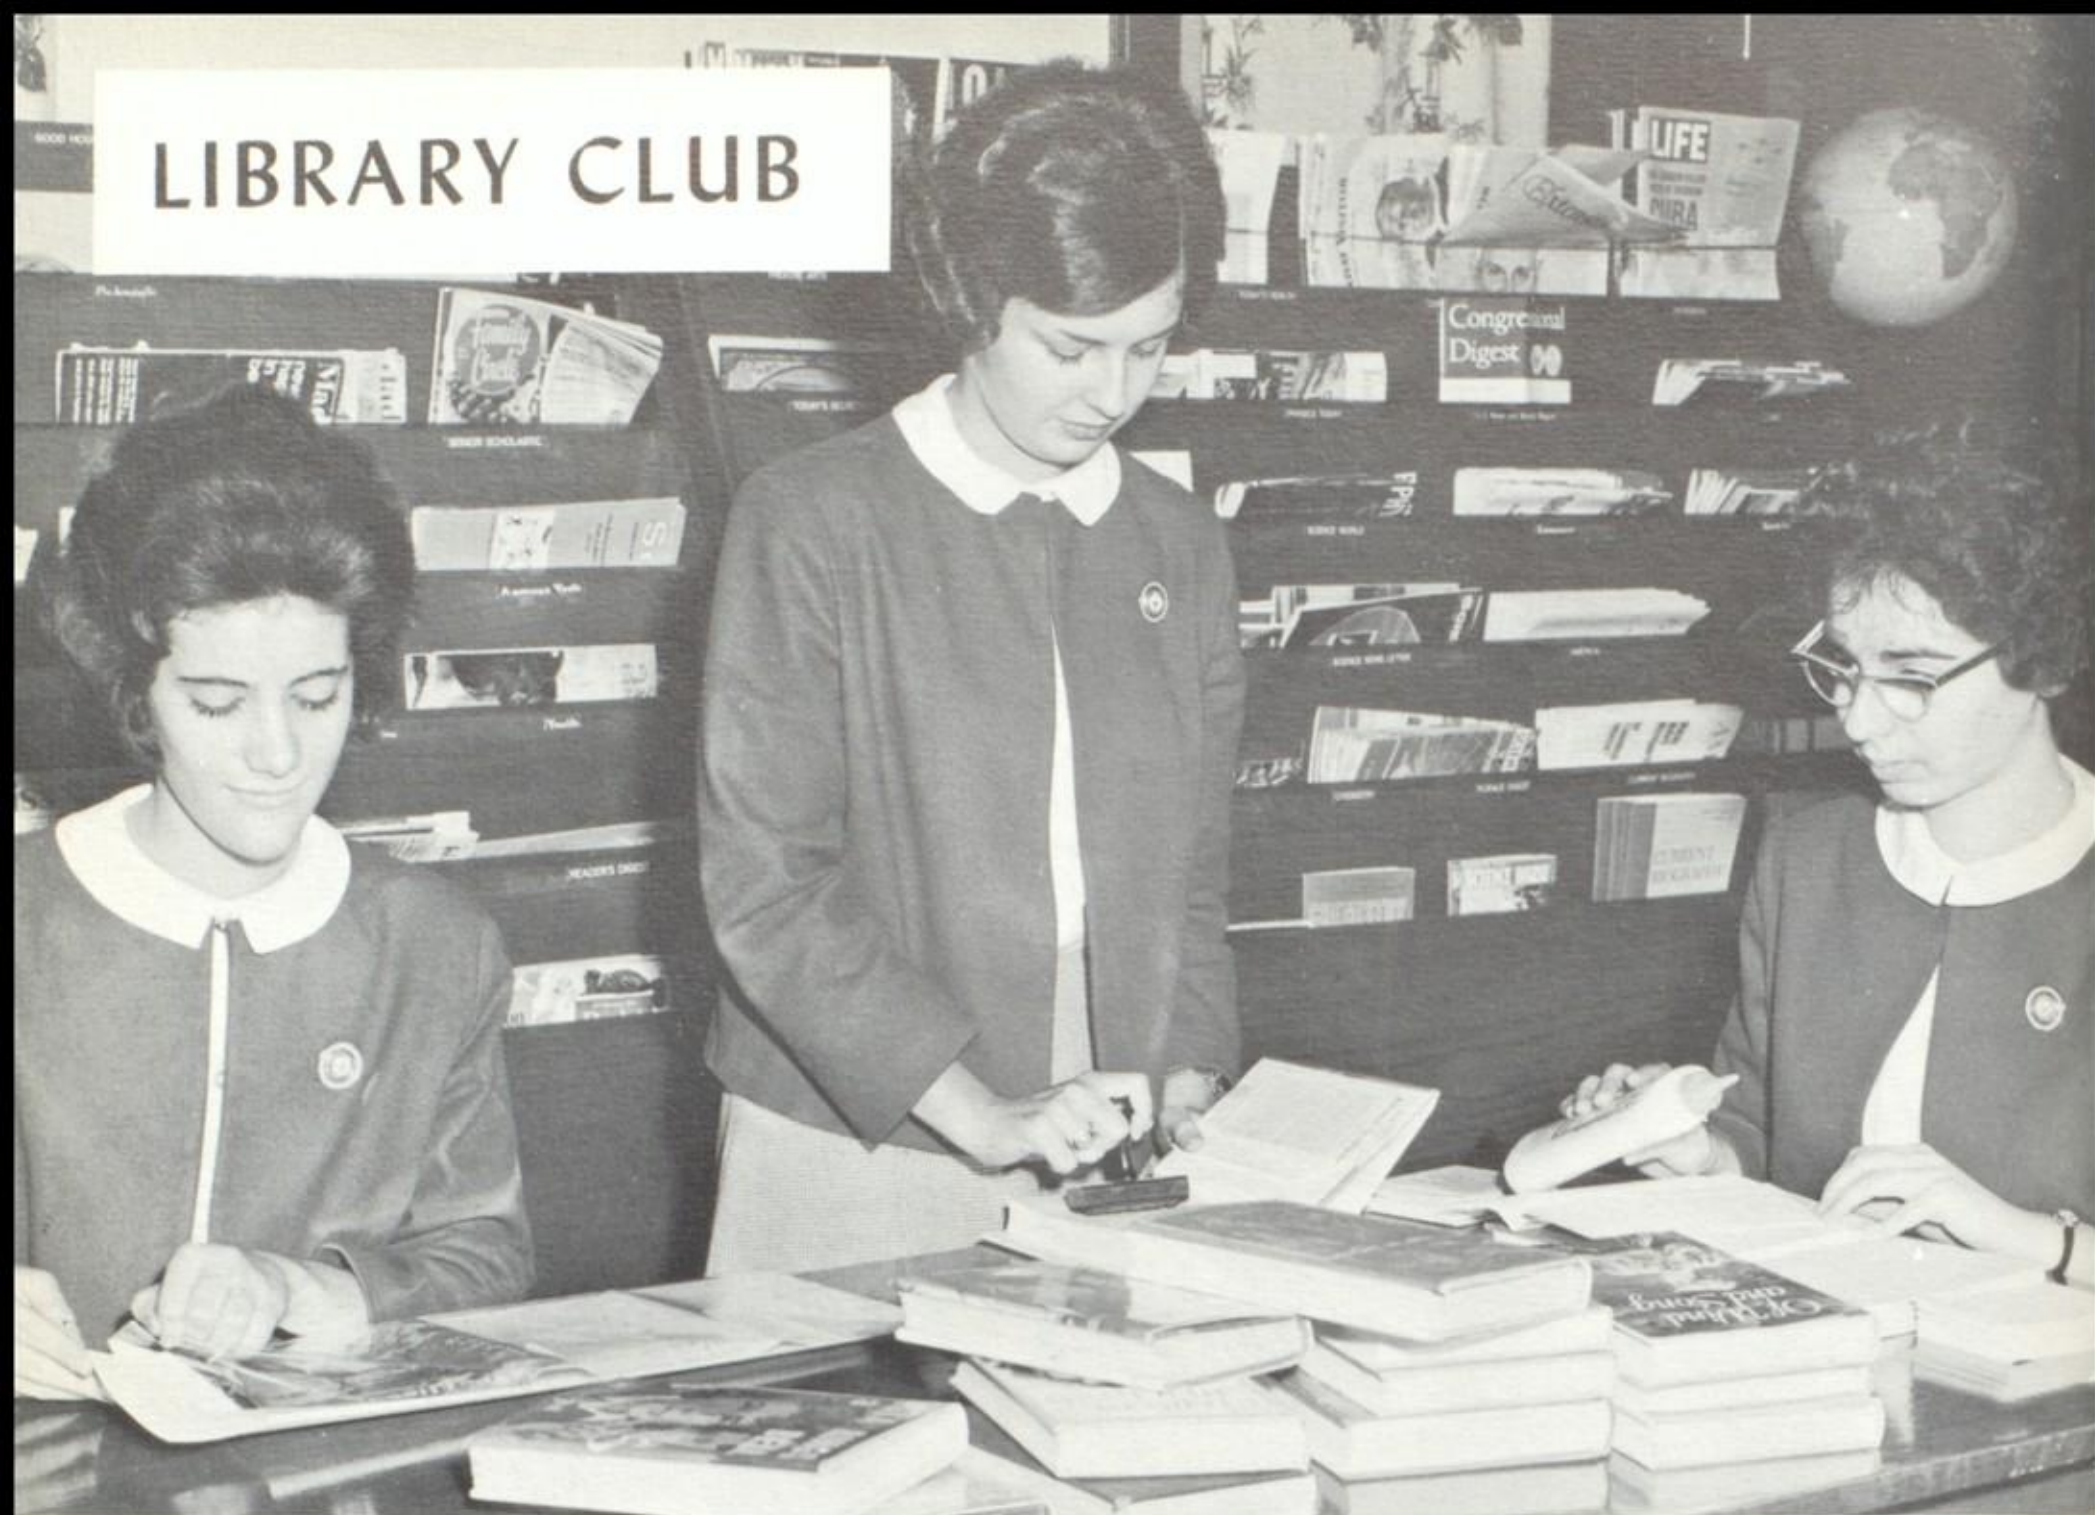

Patricia Paglio, choreographer, and Rico Di Prete perform a Fred Astaire specialty to "Fine and Dandy."

Margaret Callan, Elaine DeCesare, Barbara Flynn, Bonnie Jardin, Jane Martin, Sandra George, and Joyce Apici invite Louis to "Meet Me in St. Louis," in the production of The Melody Lingers On.

LIBRARY CLUB

Jeanne Pettinato, Janet Gabriel, and Lucille Laliberte work on a stack of new books to prepare them for circulation. Library Club members learn techniques necessary to operate an efficient library.

Ann Maccarone shows Teresa Rossi how to find material on the Ecumenical Council in the vertical file.

Under the supervision of Sister Mary Victoria, the school librarian, freshmen and sophomores become proficient in the effective operation of the library.

Members learn the correct use of the card catalog, the vertical file, and reference books. The girls become acquainted with the Dewey Decimal System in classifying and arranging books and also learn how to prepare books for circulation. Sister conducted tours to neighboring libraries and showed films associated with library techniques.

The Library Club enables Xavierites to apply their knowledge by working in the school library whenever possible.

Carol Zilinsky and Virgie Plunkett impress Sister Mary Victoria with their extensive reading.

NURSES CLUB

The Future Nurses Club, under the direction of Sister Mary Anastasia, affords Xavierites the opportunity to learn the fundamentals and benefits of the nursing career.

To acquaint the members with the requirements of nursing, guest speakers offer them an opportunity to obtain much helpful information. Visiting hospitals enables the girls to realize what great significance the nursing career holds in the modern world.

Campaigns and projects sponsored by the club aim to arouse interest in the field and to promote better nursing. The Future Nurses Club holds a charter from the National League of Nursing and a Future Nurses Club State Charter.

"Lift her gently," admonishes Janice Gauthier as she fluffs the pillow for poor, sick "Matilda Jane." Mary Farrell, a future nurse, needs no coaxing as she ministers to her "patient."

Mrs. Pailthorpe, the school nurse, discusses the keeping of school health cards with Margaret Hosey and Mildreth McGuirl. Through such discussion, club members become better acquainted with medical records and terms.

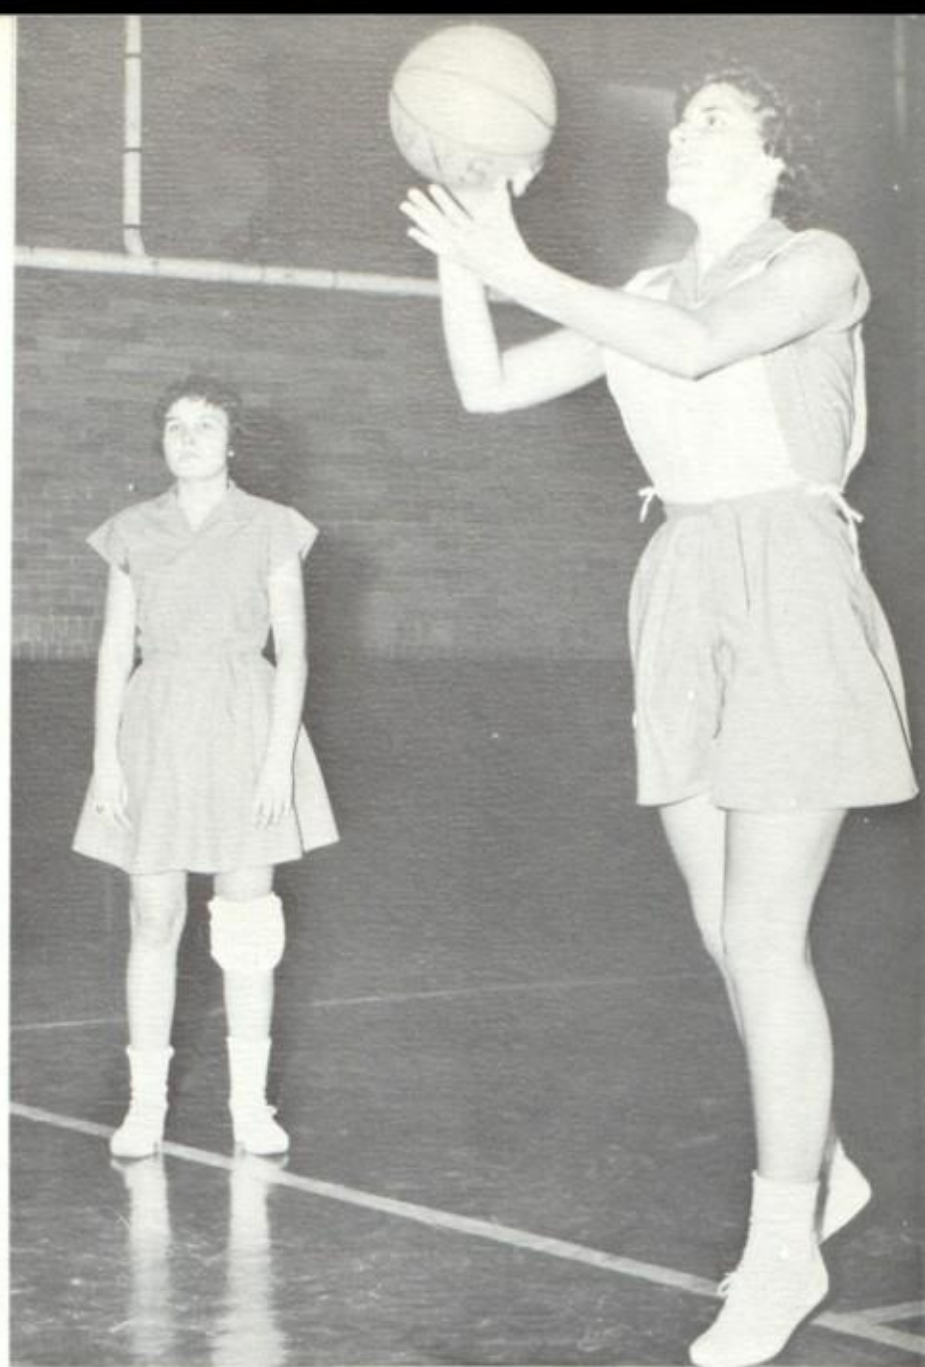

Under the supervision of Mrs. Margaret Meehan, Director of Volunteers at Pawtucket Memorial Hospital, Mary Lou Kumiga learns the proper technique of patient care while Janice Gauthier and Mary Farrell observe.

BASKETBALL

Jane Healey, captain, drives by Janet Jarbeau in an attempt to regain the ball while Janet Fregault, Margaret Cunningham, Renee Dionne, and Marie Allard anticipate the strategy of their teammates.

Janet Jarbeau watches as Renee Dionne tries to make a free shot count.

"Practice, practice, and more practice!" This motto guides St. Xavier's basketball team. Since the number of varsity players is limited, those not selected for the varsity participate in intramurals in which competition between classes is very keen. The varsity team meets teams from other high schools in games where tension and excitement reach their peak. Both in intramural and interscholastic games, the cheerleaders, full of vigor and vitality, give the team much needed moral support.

"Beat those tom-toms," cry the cheerleaders, hoping to spur their team on to victory.

Another day will soon begin for Joanne Mattias if she decides to answer her alarm clock's call.

Selections in American Literature fascinate the members of Junior 113. Sister Mary Prudentia conducts an intense course in literature, composition, and practical business English for her commercial students.

Who would ever have the heart to spoil the fun enjoyed by girls of Junior 109 during their free time at lunch? The few minutes before the dismissal bell provide time for relaxing, chatting, and laughing.

Smock and beret are waiting; the easel is ready; the canvas is untouched.

How wonderful to sketch the youthful exuberance of Xavierites, or to portray the search for knowledge etched in each young face! Teachers alone can blend skillfully the prime coat of religion with mathematical formulas, French idioms, and scientific notations.

Unbroken silence found in study halls creates quite a different atmosphere from that of the fun-filled lunch periods.

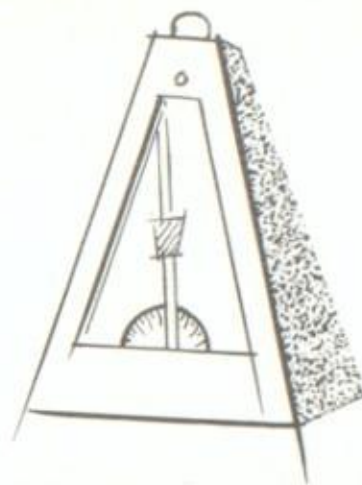

To add a colorful glow to the painting, one can mix into the colors on the palette, the enthusiasm found at basketball games, the "g, h, g" of a future typist, and the "1, 1½, 2" chant of an ever-patient Xavierette reporter.

For that final luster, the artist must capture the friendliness in a cheerful "Good-night" to Sister and—voilà!—a typical day in the life of a Xavierite.

During a basketball practice Jean Fregault and Margaret Cunningham tie the ball as Renee Dionne and Jane Healey watch. Students spend many pleasant hours in extra-curricula.

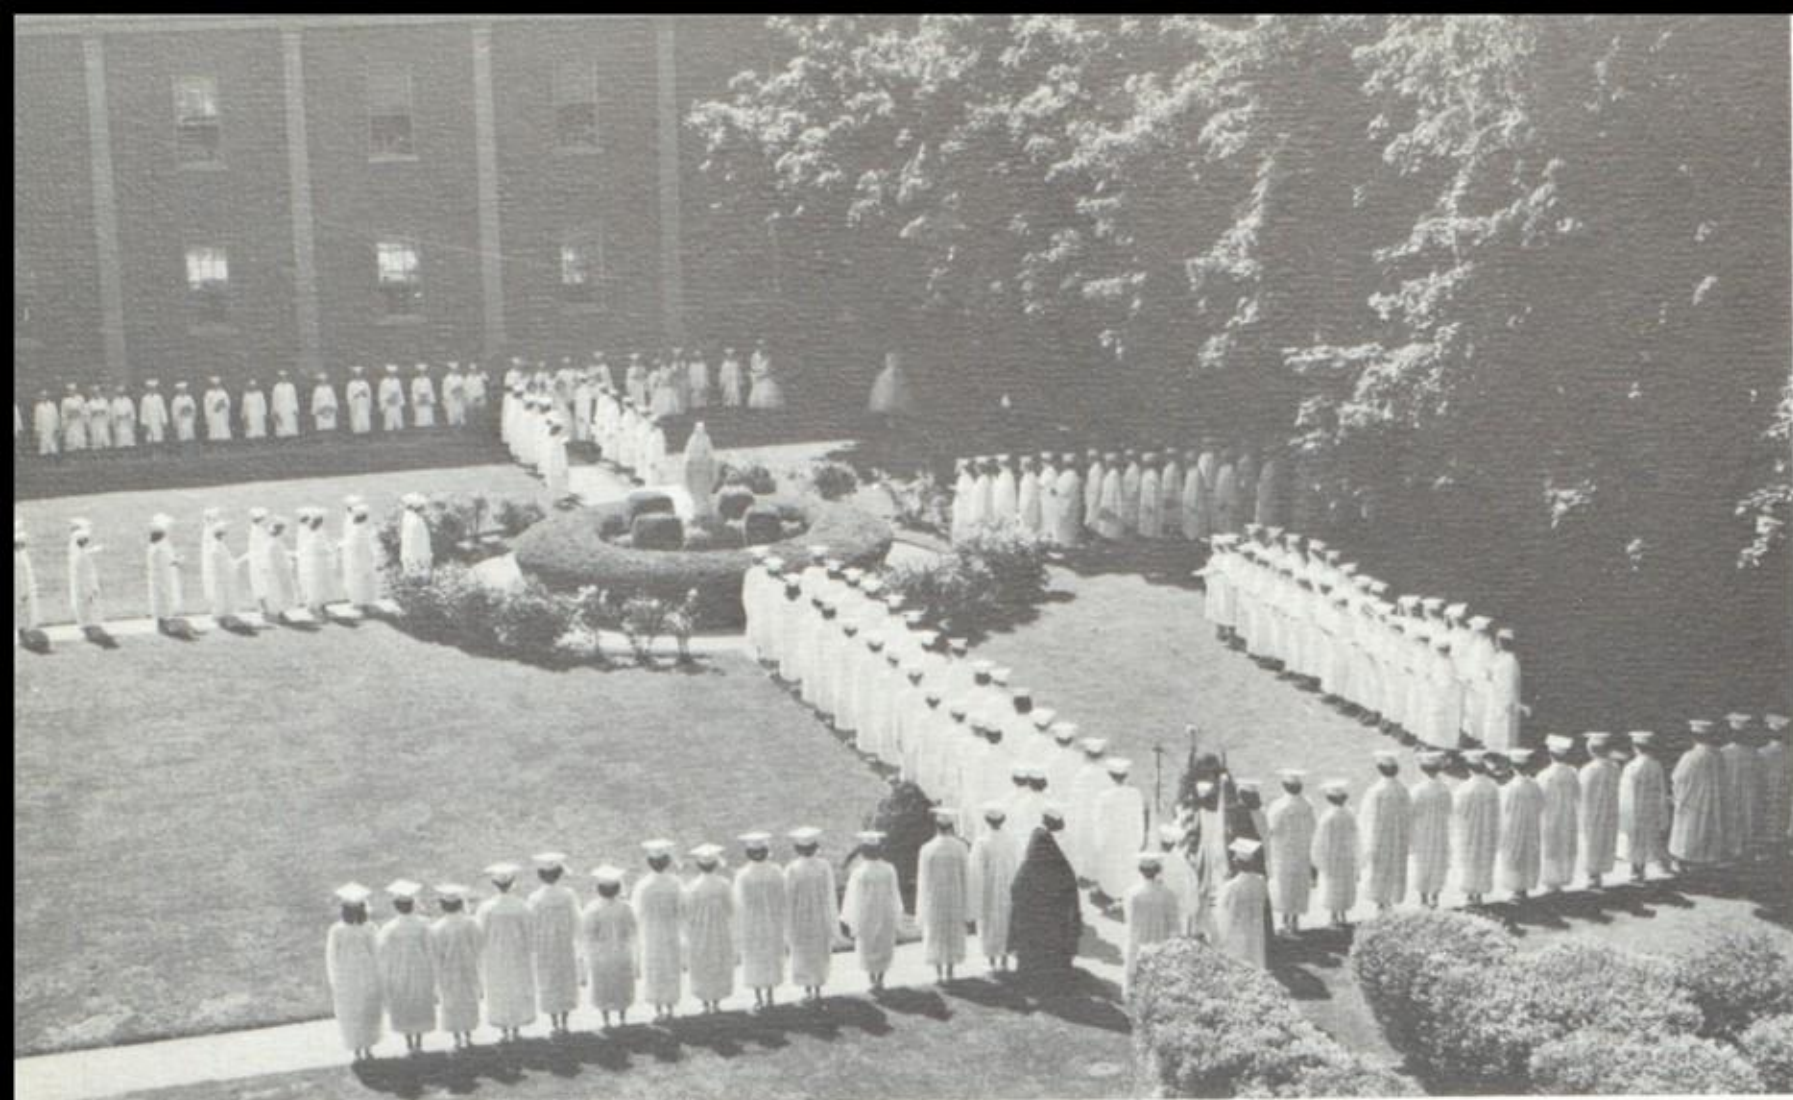

Fond Memories of High School Days

"Hydrogen + oxygen yields water." Remote preparation for chemical science begins early in the freshman year for Linda Krajewski of Freshman 308.

Prompt to answer the dismissal bell, members of Sophomore 104 hurry to the Claverick Street exit. Facial expressions reveal relief after a strenuous day of classes. Books, however, indicate that their work will soon be resumed.

On Class Day graduates honor Our Lady by crowning her their queen. This last tribute to her by the class is one of the most important events during Commencement Week.

Carmen Tamelleo and Susan Allard pause before crowning Our Lady of the Campus. Class Day is one of the final exercises the graduation class performs.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

In the exciting whirl of senior year, the initiation of Commencement Week provides an unequalled thrill in the hearts of departing seniors. The fun, experiences, and hopes they have had as underclassmen take on a new meaning as their turn approaches to present Undergraduates Day. Parents' Night finds proud moms and dads eagerly awaiting the conferring of awards. Participating in final tribute to the center of their lives, seniors devotedly pay homage to Our Lady on Class Day. Finally, while Alumnae members plan the reception of graduates into their ranks, the gym becomes the scene of the Class Banquet. The full realization of the role S.X.A. has played and will continue to play in their lives comes with Commencement Day, 1963.

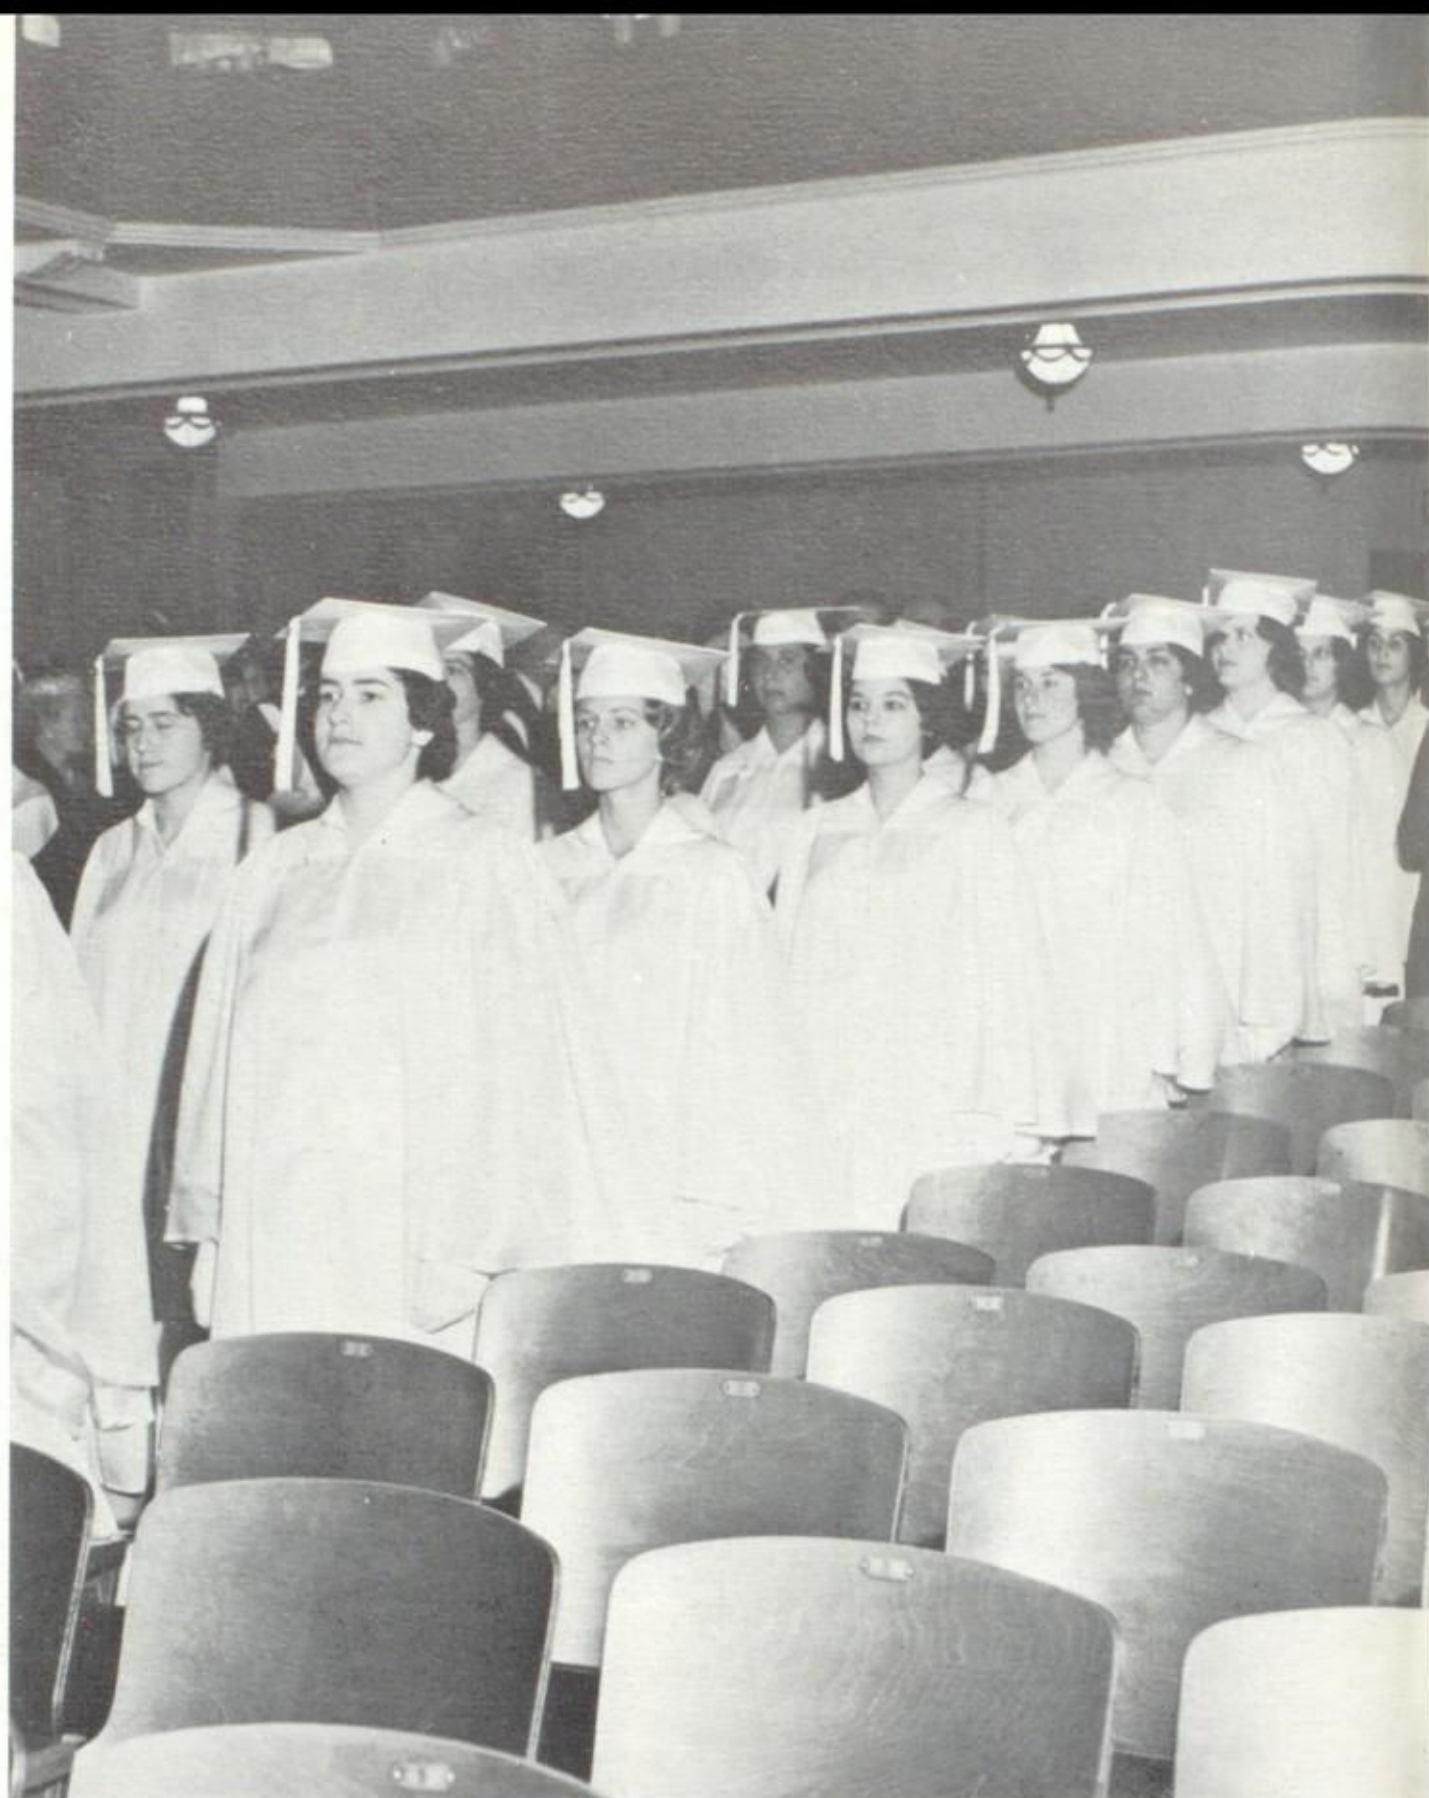

"A dream of happiness"

Rita Paradise, highest ranking senior in the business training group, delivers the traditional class oration during Class Day exercises on campus. Kathleen McCarten, Sodality Prefect, officiated as Mistress of Ceremonies.

Mingling sentiments of joy and sorrow, the Class of 1962 sing praises to Our Lady. In these last steps around the campus before receiving their diplomas, they recall the happy events that have enriched their lives as students at St. Xavier's.

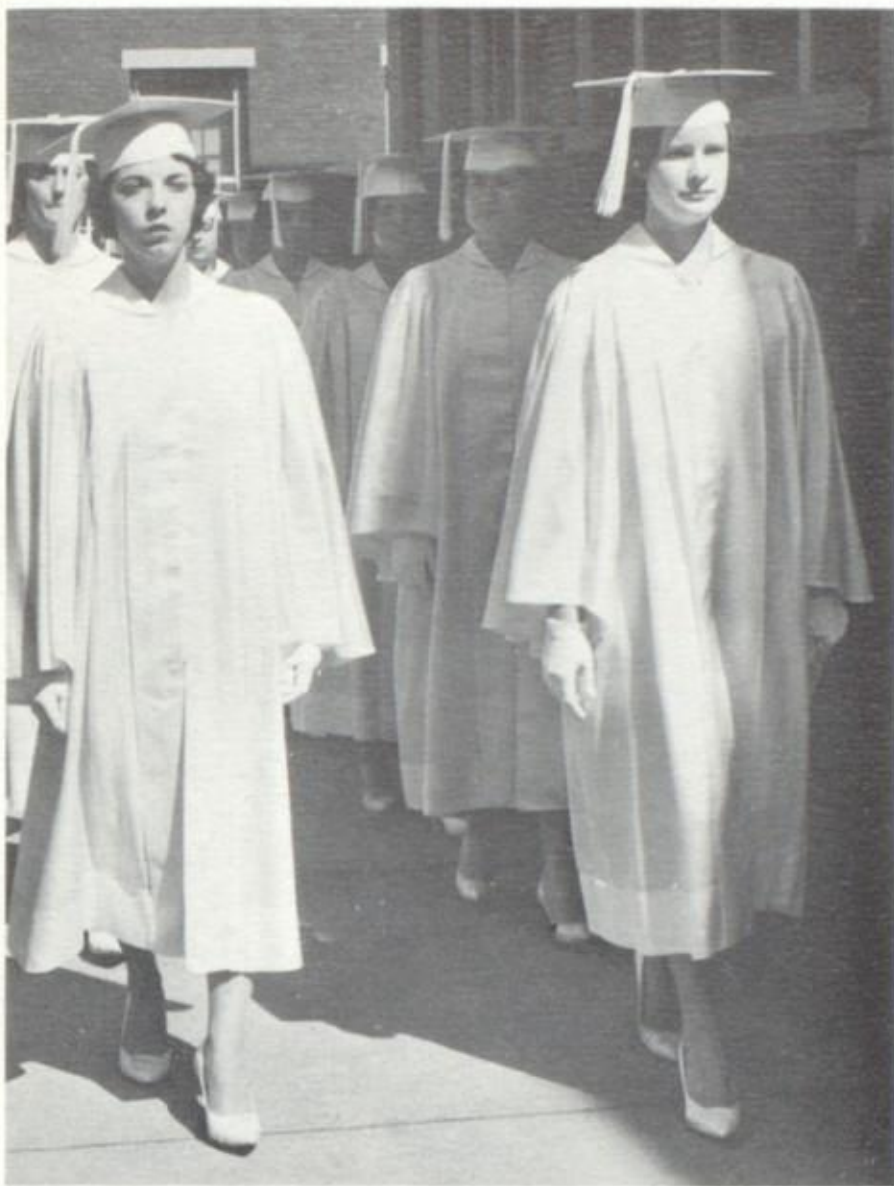

With tense, solemn face, graduates enter the auditorium to perform their last act as Xavier-ites. These few hours will add a memorable page to their book of life.

Commencement—the end of an era, the beginning of a future! It seems very fitting that the day which marks the culmination of four years' progress should be called "Commencement Day," for it is indeed a beginning. Reminiscent memories envelop each graduate as she stands to face the world, confident that the lessons she has learned, both spiritual and intellectual, and the friends she has made will become a "dream of happiness" to cherish forever. Tearfully, she bids farewell to St. Xavier's, but with no finality in her tone, for she can never forget the halls which have been her home, or the teachers and friends, who have been her family during high school days. The beloved "Alma Mater" suddenly takes on new meaning in her heart. She is radiant in her love for her school, for her country, and for God, her constant companion. New vistas spread before her, waiting to be conquered, becoming a vision of hope, "tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow. . . ."

COMMENCEMENT

Mary Lee Caisse and Kathleen Dillon lead the graduates toward one of the most important moments of their life, graduation. Commencement will begin the realization of their S.X.A. dreams.

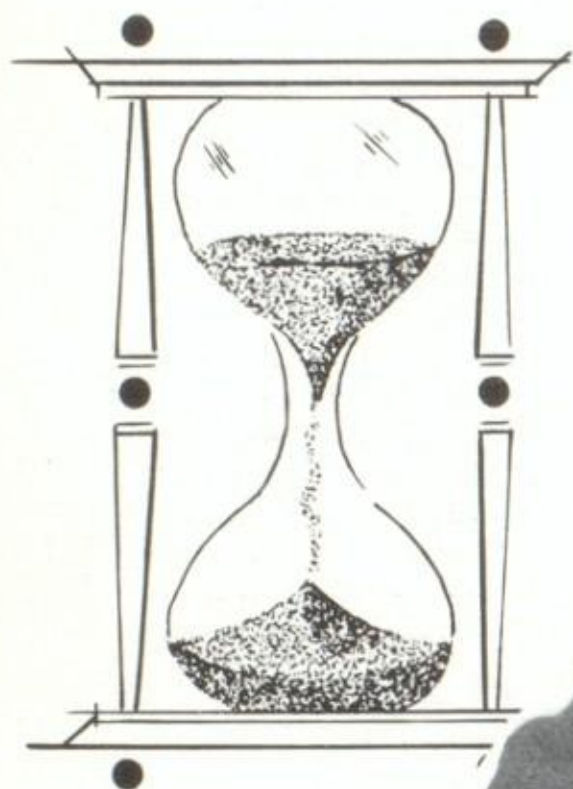

Discussing dedicated Christian leadership at the commencement exercises last year, Father Joseph Lennon, O.P., animatedly describes the power of women in the betterment or downfall of the whole human race.

With each new year comes another Day of Commencement at S.X.A., a day on which the senior class, donning their caps and gowns, pay a parting tribute to Our Blessed Mother on the campus before the graduation exercises.

*"The woods are lovely,
dark and deep
But I have promises to keep
And miles to go before I sleep . . ."*

A TELEPHONE JOB

OFFERS BOTH CAREER

AND SOCIAL SATISFACTION

WITHOUT BREAKING STRIDE,

why not graduate from high school to the Telephone Company? You'll love the friendly young people who'll work with you, and the many social activities that make your work so pleasant and rewarding.

OPPORTUNITY IS EXCELLENT

and your ability will be recognized. Your starting salary should climb with regular increases. And, of course, Company benefits, security, and regular advancement are well-known reasons why working for the Telephone Company is so attractive to graduates.

TELEPHONE JOBS ARE IMPORTANT, vital to the effective communications of the community, the nation, and the world. When you take your place as a respected member of the telephone community, we'll train you, on full salary, even without previous job experience.

Why not come and see our employment interviewer soon . . . before you graduate? Ask your Guidance Counselor to tell you when and where to apply.
